Humorists Muddle Hunt For 'Flying Saucers'

By International News Service

Humorists were muddling up the picture in the nationwide "flying saucer" hunt today, but scores of more sober-minded citizens added their reports of seeing the weird aerial manifestations in virtually every state in the nation.

One lead after another proved valueless and skeptical authorities still had to find anyone who actually has touched a flying disc, or gotten a description that would stand up under scientific investigation.

THAT STORY from Houston, Tex., identifying the discs as secret weapons from the Spokane, Wash., air force depot was vigorously scotched by Col. Frank D. Hackett, depot commander. Colonel Hackett exploded:

"I've never heard of anything of the kind. Even if the Army had things like that, it wouldn't put them in a little bit of a department like this."

A Houston jeweler, Norman Hargrave, told reporters that he found a disc on the beach. He said that it was labelled as a military secret from the Spokane air forces depot. Later, he said it was all a joke.

INVESTIGATORS of a report that eight flying discs made a landing in the northern Idaho wilds met another blank wall. Two missions of the National Guard's 116th fighter group made a thorough search of the area and reported no trace of the saucers.

The Spokane housewife who said she saw them, described the aerial visitors as being as "big as a five-room house." Col. Frank Frost of the National Guard commented that his pilots certainly would have sighted anything that big.

The man who started it all had no luck in trying to get a second peek. Kenneth Arnold, a Boise, Idaho, businessman who first reported sighting the discs on June 24 while flying his plane over southwestern Washington went up with a movie camera and flew over western Idaho, northeastern Oregon and southeastern Washington without finding a disc.

TODAY'S BATCH of opinions from scientists all over the world indicated they were thinking of the whole story in terms of tricks upon the eye and mass hypnosis.

But witnesses from 40 states and Canada stoutly maintained they saw what they saw. Exactly what they spotted still was in doubt. The discs have been likened to saucers, balloons, frying pans, globes, coffee can tops and mayonnaise jars.

Explanations of it all were a dime a dozen. The sky-is-faster-than-the-eye theory was upheld by William Dodds, New York scientist, and an Australian professor of psychology, F. S. Cotton.

They said that if you stare at the sky long enough, the red corpuscles moving across the retina

Juggler Tells Truman Saucers Belong To Him

WASHINGTON, July 8—President Truman received a new version of the mysterious flying saucers today.

A professional juggler on the west coast telegraphed the President that the saucers belonged to him.

He said he was juggling with the saucers for a new act and they "got away" from him.

The juggler modestly requested that his name not be made public—and the White House did not identify him.

SECOND 'DISC' RECOVERED IN COUNTY AREA

A second mysterious silver foil-covered six-pointed contraption was delivered to the office of The Circleville Herald, Tuesday afternoon, by David C. Heffner, Route 1, Stoutsville, who said he found it on the fence line of his farm on the old Tarlton road four and one-half miles east of Circleville.

The strange gadget, its origin and purpose undetermined, is quite similar to the first which was found Saturday on the farm of Sherman Campbell on the Westfall road in Pickaway county near the Ross county line.

Visions of a "landing" of one of the now world-mystifying "flying saucers" near Circleville were conjured when Mr. Heffner reported his find Tuesday to Sheriff Charles Radcliff and to The Herald.

Although generally believed to have been sent aloft in connection with weather observations the possibility remained that the queer contraption may be one of those strange objects identified thus far throughout the nation merely as "flying saucers".

Unlike the first find in Pickaway county, Tuesday's find has attached to it the almost complete remains of a thin rubber balloon which—when inflated—must have measured at least 10 feet in diameter.

The markings on the newly found gadget are: ML 387, B-A-P. Mfg. By Case.

THE AAF has maintained officially since the first discs were reported that it knew nothing about them, and wasn't even sure anyone had seen anything. Finally, in desperation, the AAF issued a statement which said: "No such phenomena can be explained by any experiments being conducted by the AAF, and the statements of witnesses are being correlated in an effort to identify the reported objects."

Capt. Thomas L. Brown, press officer on duty over the weekend, estimated he had answered between 40 and 70 telephone calls on his day off. One of the last calls was a request that he pose for a picture with a saucer—a request Brown turned down with some heat.

Ben Franklin, promoter of the National Air Races at Cleveland, grabbed off his share of publicity when he said he was attempting to line up 12 saucers for formation flying at his air show.

Russia Loses In UN Vote

Russian Satellites Ask Permission To Sit In On Marshall Plan Talks

LONDON, July 8—European nations within the Soviet sphere launched a concerted appeal to Moscow today for sanction to participate in the Paris conference on the Marshall plan.

International News Service learned that Hungary and Poland already have asked Moscow for permission to send representatives.

Bulgaria and Yugoslavia have not yet acted, but Romania is known to be awaiting results of the Polish-Hungarian overtures.

THE APPEALS are based upon Czechoslovakia's acceptance of the Anglo-French invitation. The other countries take the view that Prague's participation without their own might have the effect of placing Czechoslovakia in a dominant economic situation in eastern Europe.

Istvan Bede, Hungarian minister to Britain who recently returned to London after acting as observer during the tripartite meeting in Paris, already has called on the British foreign office and informed officials of Hungary's hopes.

He intimated that a decision will be forthcoming from Budapest on Thursday.

BEDE TELEPHONED Budapest this morning and learned that a cabinet meeting will be summoned as soon as Moscow's decision is ascertained. If affirmative, it is believed Bede will personally lead the delegation assisted by economic experts sent from Hungary.

The Romanian minister to London called on Bede at noon and said he had not yet received any fresh instructions from Bucharest. Both Romania and Hungary are fearful Moscow may reject their appeal on the grounds they are former enemy states and hence not in the same category as Czechoslovakia.

HOUSE SLATED TO VOTE CUTS

Tax Reduction Bill Being Speeded Through By GOP Leaders

WASHINGTON, July 8—The house today began consideration of the GOP tax-slash bill and Speaker Martin (R) Mass., predicted passage by an "avalanche of votes," enough to override another presidential veto.

Speed was the password as the four billion dollar income tax reduction measure came before the house for the second time in four months.

Martin exuded confidence as highly partisan discussion of the legislation got underway.

Senate Majority Whip Wherry (R) Nebr., says the legislation will be acted upon in the senate as soon as possible after house approval. He expects senate action Thursday.

The new tax bill is identical to the measure vetoed by President Truman last month except that the 10 1/2 to 30 per cent tax cuts would be effective next Jan. 1 instead of July 1, 1947.

AUTOS GET FREE PAINT JOBS AT RIVER BRIDGE

Several motorists have recently received a free paint job not to their liking, it was disclosed Tuesday by Sheriff Charles Radcliff, as a result of the spray painting of the bridge on U. S. Route 22 over the Scioto river at the west edge of Circleville.

Painters working for a Pittsburgh, Pa., painting contractor who was awarded the bid by the state highway department, told the sheriff they recently used 750 gallons of yellow undercoat on the bridge structure—that is excepting the quantity sprayed on passing cars.

Among the cars owners who complained to Sheriff Radcliff about their paint jobs are Roy Hawkes, an employee of the municipal sewage disposal plant, and Fish and Game Protector Clarence Francis.

SCORES TIED IN ANNUAL ALL STAR BASEBALL GAME

CHICAGO, July 8—National and American league teams battled to a 0-0 tie in the first three innings of today's 14th annual all star game.

Each team scored one hit. Joe DiMaggio got one for the American league in the second inning and Bert Haas, pinchhitting for Ewell Blackwell in the third, singled.

Hal Newhouser opposed Blackwell for the first three innings. Harry Brecheen succeeded Blackwell on the National mound.

COUNCIL ADOPTS New Battle AMERICAN PLAN Reported In ON ARMAMENTS Guadalcanal

Soviet And Polish Delegates Fail To Bailot After Bitter Clash

LAKE SUCCESS, N. Y., July 8—Russia sustained a defeat in the United Nations today when the security council adopted 9 to 0, with two abstaining, the American "plan of work" on how best to limit the size of world's armies and armaments.

The two nations abstaining were the Soviet Union and Poland.

The issue came to a vote after Soviet delegate Andrei Gromyko and U. S. Representative Herschel V. Johnson clashed sharply over the respective merits of the conflicting U. S. and Russian plans.

GROMYKO OPENED the debate with a defense of the Russian plan and an attack upon the American plan.

He declared the question of reduction of armaments must necessarily be linked, simultaneously, with the outlawing of the atomic bomb.

(This was an argument Gromyko previously had advanced before the commission on conventional armaments.)

The Soviet delegate said failure to link consideration of these two matters might force a collapse of the United Nations efforts to limit the size of world armaments.

Johnson quickly came to the defense of the American plan. He expressed the hope that the security council would adopt this plan of work, and seemed gratified when they did so.

Gromyko's face remained impassive when the vote was announced.

U. S. TIGHTENS RESTRICTIONS ON YUGOSLAV TRIPS

WASHINGTON, July 8—The state department was revealed today to have tightened passport restrictions on travel of American citizens into Yugoslavia, reportedly being used as a base for Greek revolutionists.

The action was taken despite protests several weeks ago by Yugoslav ambassador Sava N. Kusanovic against the department's policy of discouraging travel into his country.

State department officials continued to disclaim any connection between the restrictions and reports that an international brigade is being organized in Europe to help Greek revolutionists overthrow the U. S.-supported Greek government.

Kusanovic's protests were rejected on the ground that Yugoslavia would not recognize the American citizenship of persons of Yugoslav origin or parentage.

GREECE SIGNS PACT TO SHARE IN RELIEF FUND

WASHINGTON, July 8—The state department today announced the signing in Athens of an agreement whereby Greece will share in the 350-million dollar foreign relief fund created by congress.

The agreement, third in a series, is more detailed than those signed previously with Austria and Italy. The signing took place in Athens with Premier Demetrios Maximos signing for Greece and ambassador Lincoln MacVeagh for the United States.

The Greek relief program is distinct from but supplementary to the program set up to aid Greece under the Truman doctrine.

LONDON, July 8—The storied island of Guadalcanal, scene of America's first major victory over Japan in the Pacific, was reported in the throes of war again today.

Reports from American airmen at Townsville in the Solomon islands and received in Melbourne said that Malaitan islanders had declared war on the British settlement of Guadalcanal.

These reports said the Malaitans landed from war canoes armed with spears and blowpipes.

The trouble started a week ago when the British settlement received supplies of flour and rice while other natives are living on fish and coconuts.

SENATOR SEES NEW FARM FUND

Solon Predicts Senate Will Restore Two-Thirds Of Agricultural Cut

WASHINGTON, July 8—A leading farm-state GOP senator predicted today that the senate will restore more than two-thirds of the 341 million dollars cut by the house from the agriculture appropriation bill.

The estimate was given as senate leaders, confronted with their biggest money row since the reclamation fight, called a conference of all Republican senators to thrash out the party position on major farm items slashed by the house.

A member of the appropriations subcommittee now considering the big farm bill estimated that some 250 million dollars would be put back in the legislation for the 1948 fiscal year.

SEN. TAFT (R) O., GOP policy leader, agreed that there would be "substantial" restorations of farm funds by the upper chamber.

The subcommittee, headed by Sen. Brooks (R) Ill., halted its work on the 847 million dollar bill to lay its problems before the full Republican membership at today's conference.

Some of the funds knocked out by the house on minor items like the forest service already have been restored by the Brooks subcommittee. But when the major cuts on soil conservation, rural electrification and farm tenant loans were reached, the subcommittee agreed to take these controversial matters to a conference.

THE CONFERENCE originally was billed as a session on the new GOP tax reduction bill, but it developed that the prime reason for the meeting was the agriculture appropriation. Both issues were expected to be discussed, as some farm-state senators have served notice they would not commit themselves to override a tax bill veto unless agriculture gets adequate funds from congress.

Despite their desire for economy, many Republican senators regard the scale of house reductions in the agriculture bill as a sure form of political suicide for 1948.

HALF OF COAL DIGGERS WILL REPORT AT ONCE

UMW Chief Signs New Wage Contract With Northern Mine Operators

WASHINGTON, July 8—John L. Lewis today sent more than half of his 400,000 miners back to work after signing a new wage contract which nets each miner a gain of $3.54 a day.

The UMW president said the agreement was negotiated "in spite of the Taft slave law" and declared that it has "more real value" for the mine workers than any previous pact in their long history.

The settlement gives the miners $13.05 for an eight-hour day as against $11.85 for the old nine-hour day. They will earn $65.25 for a five-day week as compared with $59.25 under the old contract.

Operators estimated the new pact will boost coal prices 75 cents or $1 a ton and cost the industry around $400,000,000 annually.

IN CEREMONIES at UMW headquarters, Lewis signed the contract with operators representing approximately 275 million tons of soft coal production annually—or more than half the country's output.

Coal interests immediately accepting the settlement included all of the steel company "captive" mines and commercial producers in Pennsylvania, Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, northern West Virginia, Maryland and the Union Pacific Coal company of Wyoming.

Lewis told a news conference that "it is reasonable to assume that within a few days the contract will be accepted by the entire industry."

CHESTER BLUE BUYS BUILDING ON WEST MAIN

Chester A. Blue is the new owner of the three-story building at 148 West Main street and the deed, filed Tuesday in the office of Mrs. Florence T. Campbell, Pickaway county recorder, carries revenue tax stamps indicating the deal involved a consideration of approximately $11,000.

The property is occupied by the Lair Furniture company and Mr. Blue, who owns and conducts the Blue Furniture company at 139 West Main street, announced that for the time being no changes are planned relative to occupancy of the property purchased.

The property was transferred to Chester A. Blue and his wife, Irene D. Blue, by Mrs. Myrtle Root Cardwell and her husband, E. O. Cardwell, of Fair Oaks, Calif. The Cardwell couple formerly lived in Circleville.

The deed is subject to a five-year lease executed on June 19, 1946 by Mr. and Mrs. Cardwell to the Lair Furniture company which is a corporation officered by R. M. Lair, president; Mrs. Helen M. Lair, vice president; and C. B. Lair, secretary-treasurer.

$21,931.20 FROM LICENSE FEES RECEIVED BY COUNTY

Check for $21,931.20 was received Tuesday by County Auditor Fred L. Tipton from state officials at Columbus. The cash represents Pickaway county's share in the second distribution of 1947 auto license fees.

Auditor Tipton said the county will receive $18,816.20, Circleville $2,287.50, and that the following sums will be distributed from the check: Ashville $381.25, Commercial Point $66.25, Darbyville $11.25, New Holland $147.50, South Bloomfield $18.75, Tarlton $37.50, and Williamsport $166.

ONE MAN'S OPINION

By Walter Kiernan

Mr. Truman has given us all a lesson in Sunday motoring. If you want to build yourself a breeze on a holiday weekend get yourself a police escort.

It is not difficult—Most states will supply any motorist doing 40 with a police escort—direct to the jug.

I hear that after the President's car passed, a Virginia woman phoned police to report seeing a "flying saucer" wearing a Panama hat and glasses.

She said "it was headed in the direction of Washington and flying so low it touched the road on the straight-aways."

Anyhow, Dewey has been assured that he will carry Oklahoma next year—that leaves him 47 out of '48.

HALF OF COAL DIGGERS WILL REPORT AT ONCE

signed, the union chief declared: "We don't expect to give anybody any reductions below this contract."

Southern coal producers scheduled a meeting in Washington late this afternoon to make their decision.

More than 200,000 of the mine workers in areas already signed up were instructed to report back to the pits at the beginning of the 3 o'clock shift this afternoon. They ended a ten-day vacation at midnight last night but passed up this morning's work shift until the contract formally was signed.

THE NEW contract, Lewis said, gives the miners a 45-cent boost in their basic hourly wage rate; $1.20 a day more in take-home earnings; 42 cents daily additional through an increase in the paid lunch period; an hour's less work each day, and a participating equity in the welfare fund of 60 cents a day.

The UMW president said "this means an increase in value of $3.54 to each individual mine worker involved."

Under the old nine-hour day, the miners' basic hourly rate was $1.18½ but with the eight and ninth hours paid for at time and one-half. Under the new pact, the miners work eight hours at straight time.

The two hours of premium pay under the old agreement plus an outright 15-cents-an-hour wage increase are telescoped into the hourly rate to boost it to $1.63-plus. This higher rate will be used to compute pay for part days and premium pay for the sixth and seventh days of work.

The new contract, which runs to June 30, 1948, can be cancelled, modified or amended on 30 days' notice.

LEWIS SAID that all no-strike clauses in former contracts and financial penalties for wildcat stoppages "have been eliminated and cancelled" by the new agreement.

The new contract stipulates that it is effective only when the miners are "able and willing to work." This provision was inserted to safeguard the UMW against civil suits under the Taft-Hartley law for breach of contract, Lewis commented.

"The contract does not apply when the miners are not able or willing to work. It is still a free country although the redoubtable and ubiquitous Mr. Taft tried every way he could to obscure that right."

THE UMW CHIEF charged that the Republican party in congress "sold out to industry" by passing the Taft-Hartley law "in return for cash contributions in the last campaign." He added:

"One thing about the present Republican congress—they've stayed bought. Mr. Taft personally forfeited the presidency of the United States. It is a certainty that if nominated now, he won't be able to carry his home state of Ohio."

The new contract carries a provision that the parties will settle all and all disputes "exclusively" through the grievance machinery of the pact. This was aimed at forestalling any attempt by the coal operators to invoke provisions of the Taft-Hartley law against the UMW.

THE AGREEMENT continues the federal mine safety code and doubles the operators' contribution to the miners' welfare fund of five cents a ton.

Lewis will serve as chairman of the welfare fund's three-man board of trustees although with veto power over the board's decisions. Ezra Van Horn, Cleveland, was named as the operators' representative, and Thomas Murray, New York, was retained in his post as the neutral third member.

Lewis said the operators granted a union shop and dues check-off, although the mine workers will have to individually sign authorizations for the latter, Lewis asked:

"Does anyone think there will be one coal miner in America who won't hasten to accept the opportunity to sign the dues check-off in return for the kind of services given him by this union and the opportunity to enjoy this contract?"

Lewis also won the right to organize all mine supervisors, except mine foremen, assistant mine foremen and such other supervisors who are in charge of men not performing production work.

LOS ANGELES, July 8—Strangled with a silk stocking, the nude body of Mrs. Rosenda Mondragon, 20-year-old Mexican girl, was found early today in a street near the Los Angeles city hall.

Detectives said she had been criminally attacked and choked to death, and her body tossed from a speeding car.

Discovery of the crime, reminiscent of the "quarter moon murders" that began with the "Black Dahlia" slaying last Jan. 15, was made by Newton Joshua, Negro postal clerk, who summoned police.

Detectives reported the girl's right breast was lacerated, her face swollen and bruises and brush burns covered her legs and thighs.

JEWISH LEADER URGES PALESTINE BE PARTITIONED

Mission delegates immediately predicted "unfavorable repercussions" if the executions are carried out against the three young Jews convicted of participating in the May 4 underground attack on the Acre prison.

Speaking as a "private individual expressing the desires of the majority of Jews throughout the world," the former Jewish agency head suggested that the partitioned area should include the Negeb desert, thus encompassing 40 percent of all Palestine.

OHIOANS FAIL TO AGREE ON WHAT THEY SEE

By International News Service

To paraphrase Mark Twain, everybody is seeing flying saucers but nobody agrees on what they look like.

The mystery discs have been reported over at least five Ohio areas—around Columbus, Cincinnati, Circleville, Xenia and Dayton—but other than the fact that they are too fast to describe accurately there was little agreement on what they actually look like.

Louis A. Deesz, dean of the William Rayen school of engineering at Youngstown college, suggested the possibility that the discs are meteorites, since no trace of them has been found on the ground. Possibly, he said, they are forerunners of the annual August meteorite shower.

Two men reported the discs over Dayton, one over Xenia, two women said they saw the platters at Cincinnati, and five Ohio state university students reported three of the discs flying in formation over Columbus.

Circleville came closest, however. There an object was actually found on the ground—but subsequent investigation showed it to be only a reflecting plate used for determining wind velocities at high altitudes by means of radar.

CHILD REMAINS STILL WHILE BEING RESCUED

Two-Year-Old Clings To Ledge After Elevator Leaves Her Stranded

CHICAGO, July 8—When two-year-old Kathleen Flynn found herself standing in a pitch dark elevator shaft on a ledge six stories high she remained calm enough not to move.

To that and the quick action of her mother, Mrs. Anne Flynn, 28, she owed her life today.

They were leaving their sixth floor Chicago apartment yesterday when Kathleen ran ahead, opened the elevator door and stepped in. Suddenly the door slammed behind her and the cage descended leaving Kathleen standing on a five foot ledge.

She screamed once, then stood still while her mother and a neighbor, Mrs. Mabel Goldman went into action.

MRS. FLYNN smashed a glass panel in the bottom of the door and called to Kathleen to hang on. Mrs. Goldman reached through the opening and grabbed the child's legs.

Then the mother raced to the first floor and wedged "something" in the elevator door so that the cage could not ascend. Back to the sixth floor she ran and helped Mrs. Goldman comfort Kathleen until firemen arrived.

The men loosened the door and Capt. George Hagberg called to Kathleen to grab the doorknob. As the door was swung inward the child hung on and landed safely.

Fresh Water or Collect Pond was the first water in New York City to be used for steamboat experiments. In 1797, John Fitch built a yawl, fitted it with paddle wheels and a crude steam engine, trying it out on Collect Pond. Since that day the pond has been filled in and today the old Tombs stands on the Fitch boat basin.

Strathclyde was a British kingdom which first appears prominently in the seventh century as one of the strongholds of the original Celtic inhabitants against invading Anglo-Saxons. It lay in the western part of the island between the Clyde river and the Derwent in what is now Cumberland.

ASSIGNMENT: AMERICA

By KENNETH L. DIXON

Distributed by International News Service

WASHINGTON, July 8 — To prevent any arguments, let's call this purely a hypothetical case.

It concerns a comparatively unknown government employee, his departmental superior and a congressman from the federal worker's home state. Long ago, before he went to work for the government, the employee campaigned against the congressman in a particularly bitter election.

THE CONGRESSMAN has a reputation for an elephant-like memory regarding his political enemies. He had to wait quite a while to settle this particular score, but finally his chance came. Recently he called up the department head in question. Their conversation went something like this:

Congressman — "By the way, we've been looking over your appropriation lately. Be acting on it soon."

Department head — "That's right, sir. I trust you're not going to cut us off without a penny! (laughing)"

Congressman — "No, I guess not. In fact, we may not cut it at all—that is, unless you run into Communist trouble."

Department head — "Oh, I don't think you'll find any Communies down here. We checked that pretty carefully some time back, you remember."

Congressman — "Yes, I know, but you can't be too careful. You take that fellow Blank, for instance. He works for you. What do you think about him?"

(There was a long silence. The department chief knew all about the bad political blood between the congressman and employee Blank.)

Department head — "I don't quite understand you, sir."

Congressman — "I mean, do

you think he's a communist?"

Department head (explosively) — "Good Lord, no! Why, Congressman, you know he couldn't even be called a liberal!"

Congressman (Ominously) — "Well, I don't know. I've been hearing talk about him lately. I don't know."

Department head — "What kind of talk, Congressman? I mean, does he belong to any questionable organizations, or has he been making any speeches or anything like that?"

Congressman (irritably) — "Oh, nothing specific. If I had anything specific, I'd have said so on the floor. But you know how the boys are. A little talk about Communies, just talk, makes them suspicious of a department."

Department head (wearily) — "Yes, yes, I know."

Congressman — "By the way, you're having to let a lot of men go—for economy reasons—nowadays, aren't you?"

Department head — "Yes, quite a few."

Congressman (after another pause) — "Hmmm. Well, just thought I'd give you a ring. (Jovially) Be seeing you at the hearings!"

THE CONVERSATION left the department head with two alternatives. Using economy reasons as an excuse, he could fire employee Blank (who obviously was not a Communist) and be assured of the congressman's support when the department's appropriation came up.

Or he could refuse to fire him and be assured of the congressman's eternal enmity, a lot of Communist-hint innuenda — and a sizeable cut in the department's budget which would throw hundreds of other much-

ENLISTEES MAY JOIN ARMY FOR FIVE YEARS NOW

Extension of the maximum enlistment period authorized for the regular Army from three to five years was announced Tuesday by Sgt. Alva E. Smith of the U. S. Army recruiting station, V. F. W. Club building, Circleville.

Sgt. Smith listed six important changes in regulations governing enlistment and reenlistment in the Regular Army effective July 1.

1. Original enlistments in the Regular Army (except Army Air Forces) are authorized for 2, 3, 4 and 5 years only. An original enlistment means the man has had no prior service in the Regular Army, although he may have served during the war in the Army of the United States.

2. Reenlistments in the Regular Army are authorized for 3, 4 and 5 years only. A reenlistment means that the enlistee has had prior service in the Regular Army. This service may have been recent or it may have been performed several years ago.

3. Extension of current enlistments to three years will be continued as currently authorized.

4. Grades, choice of assignment, enlistment allowance, enlistment travel allowance and reenlistment leave currently offered to three year enlistees will be extended to any man enlisting or reenlisting for 3, 4 or 5 years.

5. Enlistments in the Army Air Forces are limited to 3, 4, or 5 years.

6. Individuals enlisting or reenlisting on or after July 1, 1947 will not be eligible to receive mustering out pay at time of discharge.

It is an amazingly effective device—but also quite effective in sabotaging the honest campaign against the real Communists in government service.

It is so many people with the same brush that it becomes almost impossible to detect the real Communists. It causes the honest congressman or department head to wonder in each case whether the accused individual really is a red—or is just the ancient enemy of some politician. And, of course, it provides the real Communists with perfect cover and gives them a chance to ridicule the whole campaign against them.

Worst of all, among sometimes glibly Americans who traditionally detest any type of persecution, it produces a dangerous number of potential recruits for the Communist cause!

Wolves Are Blamed For Change At Mansfield

COLUMBUS, O., July 8—Ohio State University and the Cleveland Indians apparently have no monopoly on grandstand "wolves" who figure a coach or manager should win all his games, "or else—."

Football Coach Paul Snyder of Mansfield high school felt the bite of the wolf-pack last week when he stepped down, reportedly under pressure, to assistant coach while Augie Morningstar was brought in from Portsmouth to head the grid staff.

All Snyder's 1946 grid team did was to win seven while tying two and losing only one. The Tygers were ranked tenth in the state in the International News Service poll of sports editors.

The lone Mansfield loss was incurred at the hands of Toledo Waite, the recognized mythical state champion. One of the ties was with Massillon, also one of the state's "big ten" in the INS ratings.

To add a twist of irony to the situation, the Tygers defeated Morningstar's Portsmouth eleven, which incidentally failed to live up to expectations. MANSFIELD News-Journal sports editor Fred Tharp blames the coaching change strictly on the "wolves," and recalls that Russ Murphy received a similar kiss of death 17 years ago. Murphy is now assistant coach at North Carolina University.

Morningstar is undoubtedly one of the state's finer young coaching prospects. At Massillon in 1945, he had an undefeated team although the Tygers tied five contests.

Another consideration in the Morningstar appointment at Mansfield undoubtedly lies in that city's intention to expand its football program.

MANSFIELD is dedicating a

BOBBY LOCKE HOLDS LEAD IN GOLF TOURNEY

CHICAGO, July 8 — Bobby Locke, the dauntless, smooth-stroking South African, teed off today in the final 18 holes of the All-American pro golf tourney with a three-stroke advantage over Ed Oliver, Wilmington, Del. Locke amassed his lead over the stoutly-built Oliver in the first round of the playoff with a card of 34-34-68, four under par, on the tricky Tam O'Shanter course in Chicago.

The invader is shooting for the $7,000 in first prize money. The purse for second place is $3,333.50.

Oliver produced a 71, one under par, yesterday, but was three strokes down to the canny South African as early as the first nine holes.

The South African earned his way into the playoff by erasing a three-stroke lead Oliver boasted Sunday at the start of the final 18 holes of the regulation 72-hole distance.

new stadium this Fall, although the plant is as yet incomplete.

It seems that Mansfield is bent on installing a "feeder" system such as Paul Brown inaugurated at Massillon years ago. The plan has been adopted elsewhere with considerable success, for instance at Middletown, which has won the state basketball crown three of the last four years.

When Morningstar was retained at Portsmouth, it was widely understood that part of his duties would involve establishing such a system extending from grade school to high school level. Now, his move to Mansfield seems to signify that the Tyger boosters are in the market for a similar system.

At any rate, Mansfield appears to mean business. They are authoritatively reported to have agreed to pay Morningstar $4,500, said to be well above the stipend received by any other Tyger coach.

10TH INVERNESS GOLF TOURNEY OPENS THURSDAY

TOLEDO, O., July 8—Sixteen top-ranking golf professionals, beginning Thursday, will compete for $10,500 in the 10th annual Inverness invitational golf tournament in Toledo.

Defending champions Ben Hogan and Jimmy Demaret, two-time winners at Inverness, are co-favored to cop the top prize money again. They already are running one-two in money won this year in golf tourneys.

Six of the 16 competitors this year will be making their initial appearance in the Inverness. They include Lew Worsham, the Pittsburgh star who won the U. S. open in St. Louis; Dr. Cary Middlecoff, Memphis, and George Schou, hailed as a rising star.

MOORE WINS IN THIRD FLIGHT OF TOURNAMENT

John Moore is the winner of the third flight of the golf tournament at the Pickaway Country Club. He won the finals from Jack Stout, 3 and 2.

Art Marshall has reached the finals in the first flight.

In the second flight Dr. Robert Hedges and Joe Brink will meet in the finals. Hedges defeated Carl Mason 4 and 2 and Brink downed Rod Heine 4 and 2.

Monday Pro Joe Blanton teamed with Norm Smith, Scioto Country Club pro, in the pro-pro tournament at Springfield. They posted a 71. Winning score was 68.

ALL-STAR GAME IN CHICAGO FOR RETURN SHOWING

Blackwell and Chandler In Starting Roles For Big Event

CHICAGO, July 8—The major league all-star spectacle, by now a brash adolescent with a two-way persecution complex, returned to the city of its birth today with 44,000 keyed-up fans booked for the Wrigley field ringside.

It was 14 years ago, in cross-Chicago Comiskey park, that one George Ruth slugged the home run that led the American League to triumph over the Nationals in the first all-star engagement.

In the fulsome years that followed, the game hit every town in both leagues, with the pardonable exception of Brooklyn. But neither time nor travel seemed capable of altering the original pattern. The Americans won, and won some more. And today, victorious in nine of the 13 previous all-star contests they were 7-to-5 favorites to do it again.

To make good those odds in the big Wrigley park, home of the National League Chicago Cubs, the Americans must overcome a slight but noticeable on-paper hitting and pitching disadvantage.

What's more, they are dealing with a group of desperate men. National League President Ford Frick commanded N. L. Manager Eddie Dyer of the St. Louis Cardinals:

"Win, sir, or else!"
Thus cajoled, the sparrow-faced Dyer over his admirable complement of pitching talent and picked no-hit Ewell Blackwell to start on the mound for the host N. L. force.

Swift counter-action was forthcoming from American League Manager Joe Cronin, who in real life pilots the league champion Boston Red Sox. Reflecting that what troubles him should also trouble others, the crag-jawed Cronin nominated an old Red Sox nemesis, New York Yankee Spurgeon Chandler, as starting moundman for the junior circuit.

Dyer's National League batting order presented two personnel changes from the cast hand-picked by two million voting fans. Eddie Miller, the Cincinnati shortstop, and Bob Elliott, the Boston third-basemen, begged off due to throwing arm discomfort, and their places were taken, respectively, by Marty Marion of St. Louis and Frank Gustine of Pittsburgh. Six of the National League starters showed batting marks over .300.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry E. Parker announce the engagement of their daughter, Linda Ann, to Frederick E. Brown, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harley Brown, Circleville. The wedding date has been set for August 27, 1947.

"Deke" Eberle, a graduate of Capital University, class of 1947, has accepted the coaching position in the Ashville Schools for the coming year. Mr. Eberle, a veteran of World War 2, will also teach History in the high school.

Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Kaiser announce the engagement of their daughter, Alice, to Herschel M. Frank, son of Mrs. Lena Frank, Cincinnati. August 10 has been selected for the wedding.

Bill Speakman of the Duval Go-Getters Club is one of Pickaway county's four representatives at the 4-H camp at Camp Ohio near St. Louisville.

Ashville village board of Education will hold its regular July meeting Tuesday at 8 with some important matters scheduled for consideration.

One of the most interesting entries in the July Fourth parade was the float prepared by the Booster Class of the Hedges Chapel Church. The float was a replica of the church and its surroundings and attracted much favorable comment. In fact all of the entries in the parade were much above the usual standard, and several floats placed outside the winners class that in most years would have been first prize winners. Much of the credit for the fine parade goes to chairman Harold E. Cameron and his assistant, Rolland Featheringham.

JONES DENIES EVERYTHING AT SENATE HEARING

Committee Ends Session With Testimony Of Nominee For FCC Post

WASHINGTON, July 8 — Rep. Robert F. Jones (R) Ohio, went before a senate committee and for a second time flatly denied that he ever was a member of the Black Legion at Lima, Ohio. At a senate commerce committee hearing on his nomination for the federal communications commission, Jones flatly contradicted three admitted Black Legion members who testified they saw him inducted into the anti-Catholic, anti-Jewish, anti-Negro society. He said:

"I never took the preliminary oath of the Black Legion."

"I never was inducted."

"I never attended any meetings."

"I never made any speeches that I can recall in labor hall."

Jones' reference to labor hall speeches was in answer to an assertion by Joseph B. Emmons, CIO official, that the congressman went to labor hall and professed sympathy with labor, but in his first house vote was against labor.

The subcommittee wound up hearings yesterday with the testimony of Jones. Sen. Brewster (R) Me., chairman, said an executive meeting will be called to study the evidence.

FIRST UN MOVIE COMPLETED; TO BE SHOWN SOON

NEW YORK, July 8 — The United Nations has just completed its first movie—a two reeler running 20 minutes—which will be released world-wide in about three weeks.

The film, titled "The People's Charter" is the first of 14 that the UN's movie section plans to produce on a $400,000 budget allotted at the last general assembly.

The first film, a compilation of newsreel shots, tells how the UN came to be. It opens with the signing of the Atlantic Charter where, a voice in the background says, the idea for United Nations was born.

The story moves from there to the San Francisco conference where the idea was embodied in an actual organization and concludes with shots of the first UN assembly in London 18 months ago.

This and future UN films are not for commercial distribution but can be obtained by any theatre for the asking. The picture will go first to church, school and service organizations in the 55 United Nations.

VFW DUES UPPED; OFFICERS NAMED AT ENCAMPMENT

COLUMBUS, O., July 8—Dues in the Veterans of Foreign Wars are going up from 50 cents to $1.25 a year to finance an expansion program.

The action was voted at the final session of the 27th annual encampment of the VFW which saw John M. Emde, 55-year-old Akron school principal and World War I veteran, win the hotly-contested four-man election for the junior vice-commandership—the post eventually leading to the top office in the organization.

Advanced without opposition to the post of commander was Robert Howard, Willard, the senior vice-commander last year.

Thomas F. Gallagher, Lima, defeated Walter Kelley, Cincinnati, for the post of judge advocate in an election that was disputed on the first ballot and then re-voted by the delegates.

Others elected were George Kistner, Columbus, adjutant quartermaster; Dr. Louis H. Brooks, Cleveland, surgeon, and Nyle Borden, Gallipolis, chaplain.

District commanders installed include E. W. Funk, Columbus, district 11.

EXPORTS AND IMPORTS

THE MADE-IN-AMERICA slogan is being put on the shelf for the moment. Economists point out that because the United States is a creditor nation, imports should exceed exports. The reverse is the fact, since about 15 billion dollars' worth of goods is being exported, including large amounts of manufactured and farm products. Only about six billion dollars' worth of goods is coming in from foreign countries. The demand for American goods is high, destined to remain so for years. It looks like good business until it is realized that foreign countries are having credit troubles, are building up their debt to the United States at the rate of about nine billion dollars a year.

One remedy is additional dollar loans abroad—an undertaking that cannot be continued indefinitely. Even taking into account the huge reserves in the Export-Import Bank, the U. S. subscription in the World Bank and the unspent portion of the British loan, additional funds would have to be supplied by Congress if foreign buying of American products were to be increased. The other remedy is the obvious one of encouraging more purchase by this country of products made abroad.

The above is an oversimplification of a complicated problem, presented in round figures. Three groups have been appointed by President Truman to study the relation between domestic economy and American foreign policy whether that be in the field of trade, loans or outright rehabilitation aid. The work of these committees, whose personnel numbers 19 Americans, should go ahead promptly; the world waits upon their findings. These can be checked against the findings of the European nations now planning to study their own needs and powers and report on them under the Marshall plan in September.

DOGS IN HOT WEATHER

ONE OF the most lamentable cases among this year's dog population has been the clawing to death by a dog of an eleven-year-old boy in New York. Such cases are unusual, but there is always special danger at this time of year. It is wise to keep an eye on the dogs and shut them up in case of any abnormal behavior. By all means call a veterinary in case of doubt. Better be safe than be sorry.

"East is East and West is West" said Kipling; but that is changing now, as both groups meet half way around the world and discover the same kind of chewing gum.

'Round Canada - - - Hour by Hour

Pages From the Diary of An Antiquated Reporter:

Two days in camp, one blistering hot with the bottom dropping out of the barometer, the second blustery and almost cold. Out briefly in the heat, long enough for the women to land a wall-eye and three pike and then back to camp. Napped in the afternoon. Swapped tall tales with other fishermen, visited with the Greens and turned in at an early hour. Rain during the night and lulled to sleep by its patter on the roof.

Breakfasted on fruit juice, a pair of eggs, bacon, toast and coffee and felt like a king is supposed to feel. At home anything more than a cup of coffee madden me. Something in the pine-laden air that stirs appetite. Watched four boats take off for the fishing grounds, women in all of them. More and more women are taking to fishing. Finally loaded and took off about 11. Ran ten miles, explored an island, landed for a shore dinner. Wind rising and when the boat headed for the weed beds the white caps were plentiful. Western sky looked threatening and after a pair of rounds that produced nothing did turn toward camp.

Other boats soon came in and it was an afternoon camp gathering until dinner of vegetable soup, roast chicken, mashed potatoes, boiled cabbage and an unusual dessert of bananas and rhubarb. Sounds goofy, but really good. Out then for a try for Old Stony, the big musky that lurks within a half mile of camp and who has defied capture for years. Has been hooked a score of times, but each time breaks tackle and escapes. Noted a peculiar sound in the motor and a loss of power, so headed back to camp. George found the trouble, a propeller housing that had gone bad and chewed up everything in its vicinity. Tomorrow George will go along to Sudbury in the hope of finding repair parts. Maybe, maybe not. If not then the fishing is ended, for I wouldn't row a boat ten miles to catch the brother of the whale that was Jonah's host.

Wind from the West, South-west today and the water at this end of the lake dropped about a foot, piling up that high and more at North Bay about 50 miles to the East. Barometer still low, indicating more stormy weather tomorrow even though the sun went down red tonight. Clouds scudding across a great moon and in a pine nearby a whip-poor-will sending his call into the night. To another whip-poor-will it may be beautiful, but to me very monotonous. Prefer the call of a big frog nearby. His "song" somehow seems to mean something. What, I don't know, not being a frog.

On the porch a whining and scratching. One of George's dogs asking to be let in. Half hound and half cocker spaniel. A half dozen times a day the cocker starts in swimming, but when the water gets to the hound's belly that one decides he has had enough and comes in. Of course the spaniel has to come along. The hound wishes to chase deer and the cocker prefers the smaller animals. Unless one side wins pretty soon that dog is heading for a nervous breakdown.

Columbus party left today taking the limit of wall-eyes and a few big pike. A long, long way to pack fish. They expect to drive right through, some 780 miles. I'll leave the fish up here and take a little more time when I head south.

Nearby a second whip-poor-will has opened up and off in the distance a third one sings. Will be at it for at least an hour. At first they worry one, but later serve to lull one to sleep. Three of them may start their lullaby right now.

NEWS BEHIND THE NEWS

By PAUL MALLON

WASHINGTON, July 8—A new high in political intimidation was scored when an electrical union international field representative organized the picketing of the wedding of a young son of Senator Taft because of Taft's legislative views. This man who injected union politics into a family nuptial celebration proclaimed a right "to picket Senator Taft wherever we find him."

The right he is proclaiming, of course, is to intimidate not only a public legislator, but his family, thus to annoy and frighten any public man for having views contrary to a union's.

In somewhat similar but more legitimate circumstances, President Truman set a far different and thoroughly American example. When Henry Wallace went to Europe to speak against the American government foreign policy, Mr. Truman said let him talk, let him go as far as he wishes. His passport was not taken up. No impediment of the slightest intimidation was put in his path. Mr. Truman let Wallace have and express his opinion, even contrary to bi-partisan government foreign policy and even abroad against his own government.

The immediate significance of this picketing of Hymen involves the question how far the unions are going in opposition to a law enacted by more than two-thirds of congress. One small Ohio manufacturer, who has never had serious labor trouble (no strikes), says privately his men have turned against their leaders in the past week, are growing restless, and he fears the result. Indeed the trend has gone so far an AFL official issued public assurance against revolutionary activities such as a general strike. But private reports from certain eastern factories disclose the Communists have found meat to their liking in this situation and are going whole hog at it intending to goad the unions to the utmost. Furthermore, certain senators are saying that while the Commies may make extreme nuisances for the government, the really dangerous political movement within the unions will come from an American counterpart of the British Socialist Union leftists who want the union fight against the bill to lead America into a Socialist labor government like England's. This group is not organized in a party. It is not yet even clearly defined as a sect. But the picketing of the nuptials of a son of a senator for his legislative view represents extremist Socialist tactics of political intimidation, smearing of public names and roughshod riding of public opinion.

My own reports are meagre and largely personal, but do not beat out these fearful suspicions. Or rather, the most trustworthy objective reports, while inadequate, show none of these political disasters is actually possible.

This may go down in history as "Noah's Year," referred to by high-brows as the "Second Noachian Deluge". But where is the dove with the olive branch?

A lot of people, reading Henry Wallace's speeches, seem to be wondering what, if anything, it's all about.

We hear very little about the Germans lately; was ist los?

"The Authority on Authorities"

MUST UNBLOCK EARLY
UNBLOCKING of a suit, as the only means of making a contract, is a whole lot easier to understand late in the play than on the first trick or two. But by then it is likely to be too late. Some situations require foresight which only the extremely keen and forward looking declarer is able to apply. That is especially true if he is up against skillful defenders, who will not help him the slightest, but compel him to do all his own work.

Funny bidding, with a timid North, a venturesome East and an ambitious South. But it luckily landed South in a contract he had a chance to make. Though he had eight set-up tricks, game would have been impossible. No Trumps for either himself or his partner if each time West got the lead with a heart he returned a club.

After the 5-Diamonds West led his heart K and, on getting the 2, switched to the 6 of his partner's spades, which drew the 8, 9 and A. South drew three rounds of trumps, then led his heart Q. If West had taken this, South could have won any return, then could have used the heart J and 9 to discard his two losing black cards. But West played his 5 on the heart Q. That, as you will note, made it impossible for South to drive out the heart A and then use the dummy's hearts for discards, so that one trick each in hearts, spades and clubs beat the contract.

If South had been keener in his foresight, he would have seen the necessity of playing the heart Q on the opening K. Then, if West returned a spade, his contract would have been safe. Winning the spade in his own hand, he could have cleared trumps, then led the heart 7, unconcerned whether West covered with the A or not. If he played low, the J would win in the dummy and the 10 could be led for the spade discard on the trick West would take with the A. No matter what was returned, the spade K would be a dummy entry to use the heart 8 for a discard of the losing club.

Of course, a club lead to the second trick would scotch this plan, but West could hardly make that switch after East's spade bid.

DIET AND HEALTH

Child Who Dawdles at Meals

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

CHILDREN who dawdle and play over their meals and refuse to eat are a trial to their parents and a menace to themselves for, to be healthy, a child must eat the proper foods.

I would regret it, however, if this statement should cause any mother to become over-anxious about her child's eating habits because I am convinced that this very attitude on the part of mothers is an important cause for the great numbers of poor eaters we find among today's children.

Too Much Food

Of course, the main reason for the development of poor eating habits is too much food and foods of the wrong kind, sweets and other highly concentrated foods, such as pies and cookies, which dull appetite for the plain, wholesome milk and vegetables every child should have.

The best rule for mothers seeking to establish good eating habits in their children is "Take it easy." The whole business of eating should be treated in a casual way, and not too much importance given to eating, at least in so far as the mind of the child is concerned. For example, the mother who says, "Now, you are going to eat a great big dinner for Mother today, aren't you?" immediately is issuing a challenge to the child to resist eating.

Good Eating Habits

Children who have good eating habits are usually from homes where the meals are served without any nagging or fussing, and where the child learns to eat like the others just because it is the ordinary thing to do.

There are other things which may be helpful in overcoming the bad eating habits, and here are two most important ones. The child should be served only small portions at a time. A plate piled up with foods of one type or another, discourages the child from eating and takes away his appetite. It is better to have a child ask for more, than to give him too much to start with. Above all, the parents should not be concerned about the child's starving, for he will eat as much as he needs.

Enough Time

It is wise to give a youngster a reasonable amount of time in which to finish his meal and then to take away his plate without any scolding, nagging or punishment. He should be allowed to leave the table with the rest of the family. An important thing is to make sure that the child does not eat between meals.

Once the child has learned to eat properly, he can be given some fruit or crackers in milk in the middle of the afternoon if he needs additional food to keep up his strength and energy.

Of course parents should be a good example for the child. They should realize that good eating habits are more easily caught than taught by their daily example. Therefore, they, too, should eat plenty of vegetables and do so with relish.

It is also important for a "poor eater" to make sure there is no illness such as an infection present in the teeth, tonsils or sinuses which is contributing to the poor appetite.

SYNOPSIS

Among the week-end guests Lady Lucy Angkatell had invited to The Hollow were attractive Dr. John Christie and his dull, plain-looking wife, Gerda. The others, all members of the Angkatell class, were: kindly Henrietta Saverlake, successful sculptress; young Midge Hardcastle, who supported herself by working in one of London's swank dress shops; David Angkatell, university student, and quiet Edward Angkatell, whose unrequited love of Henrietta made him unaware that Midge had long adored him. Unknown to anyone, Henrietta and John Christie had fallen deeply in love. Prior to leaving for Lucy's, John sat in his Harley Street office trying to fathom the mood of discontent which engulfed him, while upstairs, Gerda and the children patiently awaited his appearance for lunch. His thoughts went back to an earlier chapter in his life, when he had been madly in love with glamorous Veronica Gray, motion picture actress. He had broken their engagement when she refused to give up her career, and later had married Gerda, whose slavish devotion had left him free to pursue his beloved profession. In Henrietta he had found the intelligent understanding which Gerda lacked. Recently, wh exhausted after a difficult session with old Mrs. Crabtree, his favorite clinic patient, he had stopped off at her studio. He was answered, however, when he recognized Gerda as the model used for Henrietta's latest masterpiece, The Worshipper. Meanwhile, in the dining room, Gerda contemplated the cooling roast, and the coming week-end, with equal despair. She did not like the Angkatells and felt awkward and uncomfortable in their company. John's arrival banished her unhappy thoughts. While Gerda packed, their small daughter, Zena, insisted on telling John's fortune with cards. When she solemnly announced the queen of hearts still held power over him, he immediately thought of Veronica, whom he had not seen for fifteen years.

CHAPTER TEN

MIDGE HARDCASTLE came downstairs about eleven on Saturday morning. She had had breakfast in bed and had read a book and dozed a little and then got up.

It was nice lazing this way. About time she had a holiday! No doubt about it, Madame Alfreg's got on your nerves.

She came out of the front door into the pleasant autumn sunshine. Sir Henry Angkatell was sitting on a rustic seat reading The Times. He looked up and smiled. He was fond of Midge.

"Hello, my dear," he immediately said. "You haven't missed lunch," said Sir Henry, smiling.

Midge sat down beside him and said with a sigh:

"It's nice being here."
"You're looking rather peaked," "Oh, I'm all right. How delightful to be somewhere where no fat women are trying to get into clothes several sizes too small for them!"

"Must be dreadful!" Sir Henry paused and then said, glancing down at his wrist-watch, "Edward's arriving by the 12:15."

"Is he?" Midge paused, then said, "I haven't seen Edward for a long time..."

"He's just the same," said Henry. "Hardly ever comes up from Ainswick."

Ainswick, thought Midge. Ainswick! Her heart gave a sick pang. Those lovely days at Ainswick. Visits looked forward to for months! I'm going back to Ainswick.

Lying awake for nights beforehand thinking about it... And at last—the day! The little country station at which the train stop if you gave notice to the guard! The Daimler waiting outside. The drive—the final turn in through the gate and up through the woods till you came out into the open and there the house was—big and white and welcoming. Old Uncle Geoffrey in his patchwork tweed coat—

"Now then, youngsters—enjoy yourselves." And how they had enjoyed themselves. Henrietta, over from Ireland. Edward home from Eton. She herself, from the North country grimmess of a manufacturing town. How like heaven it had been.

But always centering about Edward, tall and gentle and diffident and always kind. But never, of course, noticing her very much because Henrietta was there. Edward, always so retiring, so very much of a visitor that she had been startled one day when Tremlet, the head gardener, had said:

"The place will be Mr. Edward's some day."

"But why, Tremlet? He's not Uncle Geoffrey's son?"

"He's the heir, Miss Midge. Entailed, that's what they call it. Miss Lucy, she's Mr. Geoffrey's only child, but she can't inherit because she's a female and Mr. Henry, her husband, he's only a second cousin. Not so near as Mr. Edward."

And now Edward lived at Ainswick. Lived there alone and very seldom came away. Midge wondered, sometimes, if Lucy minded. Lucy always looked as though she never minded about anything.

Yet Ainswick had been her home, and Edward was only her first cousin once removed and over twenty years younger than she was. Her father, old Geoffrey Angkatell, had been a great "character" in the country. He had had considerable wealth as well, most of which had come to Lucy, so that Edward was a comparatively poor man, with enough to keep the place up, but not much over when that was done.

Not that Edward had expensive tastes. He had been in the diplomatic service for a time, but when he inherited Ainswick he had resigned and come to live on his property. He was of a bookish turn of mind, collected first editions, and occasionally wrote rather hesitating, ironical little articles for obscure reviews. He had asked his second cousin, Henrietta Saverlake, three times to marry him.

Midge sat in the autumn sunshine, thinking of these things. She could not make up her mind whether she was glad she was going to see Edward or not. It was not as though she were what is called "getting over it." One simply did not get over anyone like Edward. Edward at Ainswick was just as real to her as Edward rising to greet her from a restaurant table in London. She had loved Edward ever since she could remember.

Sir Henry's voice recalled her: "How do you think Lucy is looking?" "Very well. She's just the same as ever," Midge smiled a little. "More so."

"Ye-es," Sir Henry drew on his pipe. He said unexpectedly: "Sometimes, you know, Midge, I get worried about Lucy."

"Worried?" Midge looked at him in surprise. "Why?"

Sir Henry shook his head. "Lucy," he said, "doesn't realize that there are things that she can't do."

Midge stared. He went on: "She gets away with things. She always has." He smiled. "She's flouted the traditions of Government House—she's played merry heck with precedence at dinner parties" (and that, Midge, is a black crime!). She's put deadly enemies next to each other at the dinner table, and run riot over the color question! And instead of raising one big almighty row and setting everyone at loggerheads and bringing disgrace on the British Raj—I'm darned if she hasn't got away with it! That trick of hers—smiling at people and looking as though she couldn't help it! Servants are the same—she gives them any amount of trouble and they adore her."

"I know what you mean," said Midge thoughtfully. "Things that you wouldn't stand from anyone else, you feel are all right if Lucy does them. What is it, I wonder? Charm? Magnetism?"

Sir Henry shrugged his shoulders.

"She's always been the same from a girl—sometimes I feel it's growing on her. . . I mean that she doesn't realize that there are limits. Why, I really believe, Midge," he said amused, "that Lucy would feel she could get away with murder!"

Henrietta got the Delage out from the garage in the Mews, and after a wholly technical conversation with her friend Albert, who looked after the Delage's health, she started off.

"Running a treat, Miss," said Albert.

Henrietta smiled. She shot away down the Mews, savoring the un-falling pleasure she always felt when setting off in the car alone!

She much preferred to be alone when driving. In that way she could realize to the full the intimate personal enjoyment that driving a car brought to her.

She enjoyed her own skill in traffic, she enjoyed nosing out new short cuts out of London. She had routes of her own and when driving in London itself had as intimate a knowledge of its streets as any taxi driver.

She now took her own newly discovered way southwest, turning and twisting through intricate mazes of suburban streets.

When she finally came to the long ride of Shovel Down it was half past twelve. Henrietta had always loved the view from that particular place. She paused now just at the point where the road began to descend. All around and below her were trees, trees whose leaves were turning from gold to brown. It was a world incredibly golden and splendid in the strong autumn sunlight.

Henrietta thought, I love autumn. It's so much richer than spring.

And suddenly one of those moments of intense happiness came to her—a sense of the loveliness of the world—of her own intense enjoyment of that world.

She thought, I shall never be as happy again as I am now . . . never.

She stayed there a minute, gazing out over that golden world that seemed to swim and dissolve into itself, hazy and blurred with its own beauty.

Then she came down over the crest of the hill, down through the woods, down the long steep road to The Hollow.

Even an authority like Paul Whiteman doesn't know where the term, "disk jockey," originated. And he becomes one himself June 30 with a coast-to-coast platter show.

Surprising sight: Peter Lorre, the movie bogeyman, en route to he was a student at Leland Stanford University. He appeared in a dramatic sketch on the "Stanford Radio Hour."

Wally Fowler, leader of the Oak Ridge Quartet heard on "Grand Ole Opry," has a new sideline he has opened a new wholesale record distribution center in Nashville, Tenn.

Gerald Mohr, the screen's "Lone Wolf," is also a frequent performer on the Wednesday night thriller series, "The Whistler."

John Holbrook, who portrays both "Stephen and Stanley Hamilton" on "Life Can Be Beautiful," tried his luck in banking and business, and had a fling in the theater before turning to radio in 1931.

George Allen, producer-director of "The Whistler," Wednesday night psychological drama series, lights a fresh cigar at the instant the show goes on the air, asserting he can tell exactly how much time has elapsed by merely looking at his stogie. Engineers, however, have not ripped the clock out of the control booth.

Evelyn Knight, "The Lass With the Delicate Air," featured on "New Tony Martin Show" Sundays, has noted a sharp increase in fan letters since a national picture magazine featured her in a photographic layout. Most of the letters were to the effect that Miss Knight's looks are striking on a par with her singing—and that's very good, indeed.

Radio writers consider Henry Denker, scripter of "Greatest Story Ever Told" series, one of the most fortunate scriveners in the industry. Unlike most radio authors who have to contend continually with producers and sponsors, Denker simply takes the outlines prepared by Fulton Oursler and goes to work. To date, this unhampered method had been most effective since Denker, who must please all religious groups in his treatments of Bible stories, has received nothing but praise from church and civic dignitaries throughout the U. S.

When Paul Whiteman talks about records on his "Paul Whiteman Club" broadcasts Mondays through Fridays, he speaks with the voice of a successful recorder. For despite all the hits recorded by singers and musicians in recent years, Whiteman's record of "Three o'Clock in the Morning" still holds the world record. It sold 3,480,000 — and few have approached it. Only Moran and Mack, in a comedy record of "The Two Black Crows," ever got close to that figure.

Tony Martin, the Sunday show star, will fly to Chicago directly after his July 13 broadcast. There he will make several appearances at veterans' hospitals and also take in the world's middleweight championship fight between Tony Zale and Challenger Rocky Graziano. He'll return to Hollywood by air for his July 20 show.

It is estimated that there are about 1,100 species of wood growing in the United States.

CONSUMERS WILL PAY FOR PEACE IN COAL MINES

PITTSBURGH, July 8.—Peace in the nation's coal mining industry will cost home owners and industries money.

Experts today forecast a price increase of between 65 and 70 cents a ton at retail outlets to offset concessions granted northern members of the United Mine Workers union.

Industrialists said an increase in coal prices will mean a boost in electric power prices, which in turn means a boost in steel products, automobiles, household appliances and construction materials.

While a coal price increase loomed as inevitable, business men sought the answer to two all important questions:

Will the UMW new contract start another round of higher prices?

Will other labor unions attempt to equal the 45-cent an hour wage increase won by John L. Lewis?

Northern mine operators said the new wage pact will increase their costs more than $6,500,000 a week. Based on an estimated 9,000,000 tons of coal dug weekly by these companies it would equal a little over a 70 cents a ton price boost.

Humorists Muddle Hunt For 'Flying Saucers'

By International News Service

Humorists were muddling up the picture in the nationwide "flying saucer" hunt today, but scores of more sober-minded citizens added their reports of seeing the weird aerial manifestations in virtually every state in the nation.

One lead after another proved valueless and skeptical authorities still had to find anyone who actually has touched a flying disc, or gotten a description that would stand up under scientific investigation.

THAT STORY from Houston, Tex., identifying the discs as secret weapons from the Spokane, Wash., air force depot was vigorously scotched by Col. Frank D. Hackett, depot commander. Colonel Hackett exploded:

"I've never heard of anything of the kind. Even if the Army had things like that, it wouldn't put them in a little bit of a department like this."

A Houston jeweler, Norman Hargrave, told reporters that he found a disc on the beach. He said that it was labeled as a military secret from the Spokane air forces depot. Later, he said it was all a joke.

INVESTIGATORS of a report that eight flying discs made a landing in the northern Idaho wilds met another blank wall. Two missions of the National Guard's 118th fighter group made a thorough search of the area and reported no trace of the saucers.

The Spokane housewife who said she saw them, described the aerial visitors as being as "big as a five-room house." Col. Frank Frost of the National Guard commented that his pilots

ONE MAN'S OPINION

By Walter Kiernan

Mr. Truman has given us all a lesson in Sunday motoring. If you want to build yourself a breeze on a holiday weekend get yourself a police escort.

It is not difficult — Most states will supply any motorist doing 40 with a police escort—direct to the jug.

I hear that after the President's car passed, a Virginia woman phoned police to report seeing a "flying saucer" wearing a Panama hat and glasses.

She said "it was headed in the direction of Washington and flying so low it touched the road on the straight-aways."

Anyhow, Dewey has been assured that he will carry Oklahoma next year—that leaves him 47 out of 48.

certainly would have sighted anything that big.

The man who started it all had no luck in trying to get a second peek. Kenneth Arnold, a Boise, Idaho, businessman who first reported sighting the discs on June 24 while flying his plane over southwestern Washington went up with a movie camera and flew over western Idaho, northeastern Oregon and southeastern Washington without finding a disc.

TODAY'S BATCH of opinions from scientists all over the world indicated they were thinking of the whole story in terms of tricks

Juggler Tells Truman Saucers Belong To Him

SECOND 'DISC' RECOVERED IN COUNTY AREA

A second mysterious silver foil-covered six-pointed contraption was delivered to the office of The Circleville Herald, Tuesday afternoon, by David C. Heffner, Route 1, Stoutsville, who said he found it on the fence line of his farm on the old Tarlton road four and one-half miles east of Circleville.

The strange gadget, its origin and purpose undetermined, is quite similar to the first which was found Saturday on the farm of Sherman Campbell on the Westfall road in Pickaway county near the Ross county line.

Visions of a "landing" of one of the now world-mystifying "flying saucers" near Circleville were conjured when Mr. Heffner reported his find Tuesday to Sheriff Charles Radcliff and to The Herald.

Although generally believed to have been sent aloft in connection with weather observations the possibility remained that the queer contraption may be one of those strange objects identified thus far throughout the nation merely as "flying saucers."

Unlike the first find in Pickaway county, Tuesday's find has attached to it the almost complete remains of a thin rubber balloon which—when inflated—must have measured at least 10 feet in diameter.

The markings on the newly found gadget are: ML 387, B-A-P. Mfg. By Case.

upon the eye and mass hypnosis.

But witnesses from 40 states and Canada stoutly maintained they saw what they saw. Exactly what they spotted still was in doubt. The discs have been likened to saucers, balloons, frying pans, globes, coffee can tops and mayonnaise jars.

Explanations of it all were a dime a dozen. The sky-is-faster-than-the-eye theory was upheld by William Dodds, New York scientist, and an Australian professor of psychology, F. S. Cotton.

They said that if you stare at the sky long enough, the red corpuscles moving across the retina

President that the saucers belonged to him. He said he was juggling with the saucers for a new act and they "got away" from him.

The juggler modestly requested that his name not be made public—and the White House did not identify him.

THAT WAS the only White House angle thus far on the current hot-weather mystery story.

Presidential Secretary Charles G. Ross said the White House knew nothing about the mystery, knew of no government investigation of the mystery, and had ordered no investigation.

Numerous reports of "flying saucers" are having one definite effect today—they are practically driving Army Air Force public relations officers to distraction.

THE AAF has maintained officially since the first discs were reported that it knew nothing about them, and wasn't even sure anyone had seen anything. Finally, in desperation, the AAF issued a statement which said: "No such phenomena can be explained by any experiments being conducted by the AAF, and the statements of witnesses are being correlated in an effort to identify the reported objects."

Capt. Thomas L. Brown, press officer on duty over the weekend, estimated he had answered between 40 and 70 telephone calls on his day off. One of the last calls was a request that he pose for a picture with a saucer—a request Brown turned down with some heat.

Ben Franklin, promoter of the National Air Races at Cleveland, grabbed off his share of publicity when he said he was attempting to line up 12 saucers for formation flying at his air show.

Russia Loses In UN Vote

Russian Satellites Ask Permission To Sit In On Marshall Plan Talks

LONDON, July 8 — European nations within the Soviet sphere launched a concerted appeal to Moscow today for sanction to participate in the Paris conference on the Marshall plan.

International News Service learned that Hungary and Poland already have asked Moscow for permission to send representatives.

Bulgaria and Yugoslavia have not yet acted, but Romania is known to be awaiting results of the Polish-Hungarian overtures.

THE APPEALS are based upon Czechoslovakia's acceptance of the Anglo-French invitation. The other countries take the view that Prague's participation without their own might have the effect of placing Czechoslovakia in a dominant economic situation in eastern Europe.

Istvan Bede, Hungarian minister to Britain who recently returned to London after acting as observer during the tripartite meeting in Paris, already has called on the British foreign office and informed officials of Hungary's hopes.

He intimated that a decision will be forthcoming from Budapest on Thursday.

BEDE TELEPHONED Budapest this morning and learned that a cabinet meeting will be summoned as soon as Moscow's decision is ascertained. If affirmative, it is believed Bede will personally lead the delegation assisted by economic experts sent from Hungary.

The Romanian minister to London called on Bede at noon and said he had not yet received any fresh instructions from Bucharest. Both Romania and Hungary are fearful Moscow may reject their appeal on the grounds they are former enemy states and hence not in the same category as Czechoslovakia.

HOUSE SLATED TO VOTE CUTS

Tax Reduction Bill Being Speeded Through By GOP Leaders

WASHINGTON, July 8 — The house today began consideration of the GOP tax-slash bill and Speaker Martin (R) Mass., predicted passage by an "avalanche of votes," enough to override another presidential veto.

Speed was the password as the four billion dollar income tax reduction measure came before the house for the second time in four months.

Martin exuded confidence as highly partisan discussion of the legislation got underway.

Senate Majority Whip Wherry (R) Nebr., says the legislation will be acted upon in the senate as soon as possible after house approval. He expects senate action Thursday.

The new tax bill is identical to the measure vetoed by President Truman last month except that the 10% to 30 percent tax cuts would be effective next Jan. 1 instead of July 1, 1947.

AUTOS GET FREE PAINT JOBS AT RIVER BRIDGE

Several motorists have recently received a free paint job not to their liking, it was disclosed Tuesday by Sheriff Charles Radcliff, as a result of the spray painting of the bridge on U. S. Route 22 over the Scioto river at the west edge of Circleville.

Painters working for a Pittsburgh, Pa., painting contractor who was awarded the bid by the state highway department, told the sheriff they recently used 750 gallons of yellow undercoat on the bridge structure—that is excepting the quantity sprayed on passing cars.

Among the cars owners who complained to Sheriff Radcliff about their paint jobs are Roy Hawkes, an employee of the municipal sewage disposal plant, and Fish and Game Protector Clarence Francis.

SCORES TIED IN ANNUAL ALL STAR BASEBALL GAME

CHICAGO, July 8 — National and American league teams battled to a 0-0 tie in the first three innings of today's 14th annual all star game.

Each team scored one hit. Joe DiMaggio got one for the American league in the second inning and Bert Haas, pinchhitting for Ewell Blackwell in the third, singled.

Hal Newhouser opposed Blackwell for the first three innings. Harry Brecheen succeeded Blackwell on the National mound.

COUNCIL ADOPTS AMERICAN PLAN ON ARMAMENTS

Soviet And Polish Delegates Fail To Bailot After Bitter Clash

LAKE SUCCESS, N. Y., July 8 —Russia sustained a defeat in the United Nations today when the security council adopted 9 to 0, with two abstaining, the American "plan of work" on how best to limit the size of world's armies and armaments.

The two nations abstaining were the Soviet Union and Poland.

The issue came to a vote after Soviet Delegate Andrei Gromyko and U. S. Representative Herschel V. Johnson clashed sharply over the respective merits of the conflicting U. S. and Russian plans.

GROMYKO OPENED the debate with a defense of the Russian plan and an attack upon the American plan.

He declared the question of reduction of armaments must necessarily be linked, simultaneously, with the outlawing of the atomic bomb.

(This was an argument Gromyko previously had advanced before the commission on conventional armaments.)

The Soviet delegate said failure to link consideration of these two matters might force a collapse of the United Nations efforts to limit the size of world armaments.

Johnson quickly came to the defense of the American plan. He expressed the hope that the security council would adopt this plan of work, and seemed gratified when they did so.

Gromyko's face remained impassive when the vote was announced.

U. S. TIGHTENS RESTRICTIONS ON YUGOSLAV TRIPS

WASHINGTON, July 8 — The state department was revealed today to have tightened passport restrictions on travel of American citizens into Yugoslavia, reportedly being used as a base for Greek revolutionists.

The action was taken despite protests several weeks ago by Yugoslav ambassador Sava N. Kusanovic against the department's policy of discouraging travel into his country.

State department officials continued to disclaim any connection between the restrictions and reports that an international brigade is being organized in Europe to help Greek revolutionists overthrow the U. S.-supported Greek government.

Kusanovic's protests were rejected on the ground that Yugoslavia would not recognize the American citizenship of persons of Yugoslav origin or parentage.

GREECE SIGNS PACT TO SHARE IN RELIEF FUND

WASHINGTON, July 8—The state department today announced the signing in Athens of an agreement whereby Greece will share in the 350-million dollar foreign relief fund created by congress.

The agreement, third in a series, is more detailed than those signed previously with Austria and Italy. The signing took place in Athens with Premier Demetrios Maximos signing for Greece and ambassador Lincoln MacVeagh for the United States.

The Greek relief program is distinct from but supplementary to the program set up to aid Greece under the Truman doctrine.

New Battle Reported In Guadalcanal

LONDON, July 8—The storied island of Guadalcanal, scene of America's first major victory over Japan in the Pacific, was reported in the throes of war again today.

Reports from American airmen at Townsville in the Solomon islands and received in Melbourne said that Malaitan islanders had declared war on the British settlement of Guadalcanal.

These reports said the Malaitans landed from war canoes armed with spears and blowpipes.

The trouble started a week ago when the British settlement received supplies of flour and rice while other natives are living on fish and coconuts.

SENATOR SEES NEW FARM FUND

Solon Predicts Senate Will Restore Two-Thirds Of Agricultural Cut

WASHINGTON, July 8—A leading farm-state GOP senator predicted today that the senate will restore more than two-thirds of the 341 million dollars cut by the house from the agriculture appropriation bill.

The estimate was given as senate leaders, confronted with their biggest money row since the reclamation fight, called a conference of all Republican senators to thrash out the party position on major farm items slashed by the house.

A member of the appropriations subcommittee now considering the big farm bill estimated that some 250 million dollars would be put back in the legislation for the 1948 fiscal year.

SEN. TAFT (R) O., GOP policy leader, agreed that there would be "substantial" restorations of farm funds by the upper chamber.

The subcommittee, headed by Sen. Brooks (R) Ill., halted its work on the 847 million dollar bill to lay its problems before the full Republican membership at today's conference.

Some of the funds knocked out by the house on minor items like the forest service already have been restored by the Brooks subcommittee. But when the major cuts on soil conservation, rural electrification and farm tenant loans were reached, the subcommittee agreed to take these controversial matters to a conference.

THE CONFERENCE originally was billed as a session on the new GOP tax reduction bill, but it developed that the prime reason for the meeting was the agriculture appropriation. Both issues were expected to be discussed, as some farm-state senators have served notice they would not commit themselves to override a tax bill veto unless agriculture gets adequate funds from congress.

Despite their desire for economy, many Republican senators regard the scale of house reductions in the agriculture bill as a sure form of political suicide for 1948.

HALF OF COAL DIGGERS WILL REPORT AT ONCE

UMW Chief Signs New Wage Contract With Northern Mine Operators

WASHINGTON, July 8—John L. Lewis today sent more than half of his 400,000 miners back to work after signing a new wage contract which nets each miner a gain of $3.34 a day.

The UMW president said the agreement was negotiated "in spite of the Taft slave law" and declared that it has "more real value" for the mine workers than any previous pact in their long history.

The settlement gives the miners $13.05 for an eight-hour day as against $11.85 for the old nine-hour day. They will earn $65.25 for a five-day week as compared with $59.25 under the old contract.

Operators estimated the new pact will boost coal prices 75 cents or $1 a ton and cost the industry around $400,000,000 annually.

IN CEREMONIES at UMW headquarters, Lewis signed the contract with operators representing approximately 275 million tons of soft coal production annually—or more than half the country's output.

Coal interests immediately accepting the settlement included all of the steel company "captive" mines and commercial producers in Pennsylvania, Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, northern West Virginia, Maryland and the Union Pacific Coal company of Wyoming.

Lewis told a news conference that "it is reasonable to assume that within a few days the contract will be accepted by the entire industry."

CHESTER BLUE BUYS BUILDING ON WEST MAIN

Chester A. Blue is the new owner of the three-story building at 148 West Main street and the deed, filed Tuesday in the office of Mrs. Florence T. Campbell, Pickaway county recorder, carries revenue tax stamps indicating the deal involved a consideration of approximately $11,000.

The property is occupied by the Lair Furniture company and Mr. Blue, who owns and conducts the Blue Furniture company at 139 West Main street, announced that for the time being no changes are planned relative to occupancy of the property purchased.

The property was transferred to Chester A. Blue and his wife, Irene D. Blue, by Mrs. Myrtle Root Cardwell and her husband, E. O. Cardwell, of Fair Oaks, Calif. The Cardwell couple formerly lived in Circleville.

The deed is subject to a five-year lease executed on June 19, 1946 by Mr. and Mrs. Cardwell to the Lair Furniture company which is a corporation officered by R. M. Lair, president; Mrs. Helen M. Lair, vice president; and C. B. Lair, secretary-treasurer.

$21,931.20 FROM LICENSE FEES RECEIVED BY COUNTY

Check for $21,931.20 was received Tuesday by County Auditor Fred L. Tipton from state officials at Columbus. The cash represents Pickaway county's share in the second distribution of 1947 auto license fees.

Auditor Tipton said the county will receive $18,816.20, Circleville $2,287.50, and that the following sums will be distributed from the check: Ashville $381.25, Commercial Point $66.25, Darbyville $11.25, New Holland $147.50, South Bloomfield $14.75, Tarleton $37.50, and Williamsport $16.00.

HALF OF COAL DIGGERS WILL REPORT AT ONCE

signed, the union chief declared:
"We don't expect to give anybody any reductions below this contract."

Southern coal producers scheduled a meeting in Washington late this afternoon to make their decision.

More than 200,000 of the mine workers in areas already signed up were instructed to report back to the pits at the beginning of the 3 o'clock shift this afternoon. They ended a ten-day vacation at midnight last night but passed up this morning's work shift until the contract formally was signed.

THE NEW contract, Lewis said, gives the miners a 45-cent boost in their basic hourly wage rate; $1.20 a day more in take-home earnings; 42 cents daily additional through an increase in the paid lunch period; an hour's less work each day, and a participating equity in the welfare fund of 60 cents a day.

The UMW president said "this means an increase in value of $3.54 to each individual mine worker involved."

Under the old nine-hour day, the miners' basic hourly rate was $1.18 1/2 but with the eight and ninth hours paid for at time and one-half. Under the new pact, the miners work eight hours at straight time.

The two hours of premium pay under the old agreement plus an outright 15-cents-an-hour wage increase are telescoped into the hourly rate to boost it to $1.63-plus. This higher rate will be used to compute pay for part days and premium pay for the sixth and seventh days of work.

The new contract, which runs to June 30, 1948, can be cancelled, modified or amended on 30 days' notice.

LEWIS SAID that all no-strike clauses in former contracts and financial penalties for wildcat stoppages "have been eliminated and cancelled" by the new agreement.

The new contract stipulates that it is effective only when the miners are "able and willing to work." This provision was inserted to safeguard the UMW against civil suits under the Taft-Hartley law for breach of contract, Lewis commented:

"The contract does not apply when the miners are not able or willing to work. It is still a free country although the redoubtable and ubiquitous Mr. Taft tried every way he could to obscure that right."

THE UMW CHIEF charged that the Republican party in congress "sold out to industry" by passing the Taft-Hartley law "in return for cash contributions in the last campaign." He added:

"One thing about the present Republican congress—they've stayed bought. Mr. Taft personally forfeited the presidency of the United States. It is a certainty that if nominated now, he won't be able to carry his home state of Ohio."

The new contract carries a provision that the parties will settle any and all disputes "exclusively" through the grievance machinery of the pact. This was aimed at forestalling any attempt by the coal operators to invoke provisions of the Taft-Hartley law against the UMW.

THE AGREEMENT continues the federal mine safety code and doubles the operators' contribution to the miners' welfare fund of five cents a ton.

Lewis will serve as chairman of the welfare fund's three-man board of trustees although without veto power over the board's decisions. Ezra Van Horn, Cleveland, was named as the operators' representative, and Thomas Murray, New York, was retained in his post as the neutral third member.

Lewis said the operators granted a union shop and dues check-off, although the mine workers will have to individually sign authorizations for the latter, Lewis asked:

"Does anyone think there will be one coal miner in America who won't hasten to accept the opportunity to sign the dues check-off in return for the kind of services given him by this union and the opportunity to enjoy this contract."

Lewis also won the right to organize all mine supervisors, except mine foremen, assistant mine foremen and such other supervisors who are in charge of men not performing production work.

LOS ANGELES, July 8—Strangled with a silk stocking, the nude body of Mrs. Rosenda Mondragon, 20-year-old Mexican girl, was found early today in a street near the Los Angeles city hall.

Detectives said she had been criminally attacked and choked to death, and her body tossed from a speeding car.

Discovery of the crime, reminiscent of the "quarter moon murders" that began with the "Black Dahlia" slaying last Jan. 15, was made by Newton Joshua, Negro postal clerk, who summoned police.

Detectives reported the girl's right breast was lacerated, her face swollen and bruised and brush burns covered her legs and thighs.

The professor reported that the Toledo University telescope had not been used in an effort to locate any of the discs since equipment is reserved purely for classwork and not fused for research.

Today, reports were still coming in from persons who had seen discs cruising over the city.

Only the descriptions had changed. Yet some of the disc-reporters still insisted they were flying 1,000 miles an hour.

JEWISH LEADER URGES PALESTINE BE PARTITIONED

JERUSALEM, July 8—Dr. Chaim Weizmann, 74-year-old Jewish "elder statesman," recommended today partitioning of the Holy Land as "the appropriate solution" to the Palestine problem.

Going before his 19th Palestine mission — to testify concerning strained relations in the Holy Land, Weizmann's remarks were interrupted by the sudden news that death sentences against three young Jewish extremists have been confirmed.

Mission delegates immediately predicted "unfavorable repercussions" if the executions are carried out against the three young Jews convicted of participating in the May 4 underground attack on the Acre prison.

Speaking as a "private individual expressing the desires of the majority of Jews throughout the world," the former Jewish agency head suggested that the partitioned area should include the Negeb desert, thus encompassing 40 percent of all Palestine.

OHIOANS FAIL TO AGREE ON WHAT THEY SEE

By International News Service

To paraphrase Mark Twain, everybody is seeing flying saucers but nobody agrees on what they look like.

The mystery discs have been reported over at least five Ohio areas—around Columbus, Cincinnati, Circleville, Xenia and Dayton—but other than the fact that they are too fast to describe accurately there was little agreement on what they actually look like.

Louis A. Deesz, dean of the William Rayen school of engineering at Youngstown college, suggested the possibility that the discs are meteorites, since no trace of them has been found on the ground. Possibly, he said, they are forerunners of the annual August meteorite shower.

Two men reported the discs over Dayton, one over Xenia, two women said they saw the platters at Cincinnati, and five Ohio state university students reported three of the discs flying in formation over Columbus.

Circleville came closest, however. There an object was actually found on the ground—but subsequent investigation showed it to be only a reflecting plate used for determining wind velocities at high altitudes by means of radar.

Two-Year-Old Clings To Ledge After Elevator Leaves Her Stranded

CHICAGO, July 8—When two-year-old Kathleen Flynn found herself standing in a pitch dark elevator shaft on a ledge six stories high she remained calm enough not to move.

To that and the quick action of her mother, Mrs. Anne Flynn, 28, she owed her life today.

They were leaving their sixth floor Chicago apartment yesterday when Kathleen ran ahead, opened the elevator door and stepped in. Suddenly the door slammed behind her and the cage descended leaving Kathleen standing on a five foot ledge.

She screamed once, then stood still while her mother and a neighbor, Mrs. Mabel Goldman went into action.

MRS. FLYNN smashed a glass panel in the bottom of the door and called to Kathleen to hang on. Mrs. Goldman reached through the opening and grabbed the child's legs.

Then the mother raced to the first floor and wedged "something" in the elevator door so that the cage could not ascend. Back to the sixth floor she ran and helped Mrs. Goldman comfort Kathleen until firemen arrived.

The men loosened the door and Capt. George Hagberg called to Kathleen to grab the doorknob. As the door was swung inward the child hung on and landed safely.

Fresh Water or Collect Pond was the first water in New York City to be used for steamboat experiments. In 1797, John Fitch built a yawl, fitted it with paddle wheels and a crude steam engine, trying it out on Collect Pond. Since that day the pond has been filled in and today the old Tombs stands on the Fitch boat basin.

Strathclyde was a British kingdom which first appears prominently in the seventh century as one of the strongholds of the original Celtic inhabitants against invading Anglo-Saxons. It lay in the western part of the island between the Clyde river and the Derwent in what is now Cumberland.

ASSIGNMENT: AMERICA

By KENNETH L. DIXON

Distributed by International News Service

WASHINGTON, July 8—To prevent any arguments, let's call this purely a hypothetical case.

It concerns a comparatively unknown government employee, his departmental superior and a congressman from the federal worker's home state. Long ago, before he went to work for the government, the employee campaigned against the congressman in a particularly bitter election.

THE CONGRESSMAN has a reputation for an elephant-like memory regarding his political enemies. He had to wait quite a while to settle this particular score, but finally his chance came. Recently he called up the department head in question. Their conversation went something like this:

Congressman — "By the way, we've been looking over your appropriation lately. Be acting on it soon."

Department head — "That's right, sir. I trust you're not going to cut us off without a penny! (laughing)"

Congressman — "No, I guess not. In fact, we may not cut it at all—that is, unless you run into Communist trouble."

Department head — "Oh, I don't think you'll find any Communies down here. We checked that pretty carefully some time back, you remember."

Congressman — "Yes, I know, but you can't be too careful. You take that fellow Blank, for instance. He works for you. What do you think about him?"

(There was a long silence. The department chief knew all about the bad political blood between the congressman and employee Blank.)

Department head — "I don't quite understand you, sir. . ."

Congressman — "I mean, do

you think he's a communist?"

Department head (explosively) — "Good Lord, no! Why, Congressman, you know he couldn't even be called a liberal!"

Congressman (Ominously) — "Well, I don't know. I've been hearing talk about him lately. I don't know. . ."

Department head — "What kind of talk, Congressman? I mean, does he belong to any questionable organizations, or has he been making any speeches or anything like that?"

Congressman (irritably) — "Oh, nothing specific. If I had anything specific, I'd have said so on the floor. But you know how the boys are. A little talk about Communies, just talk, makes them suspicious of a department."

Department head (wearily) — "Yes, yes, I know."

Congressman — "By the way, you're having to let a lot of men go—for economy reasons—nowadays, aren't you?"

Department head — "Yes, quite a few."

Congressman (after another pause) — "Hmmm. Well, just thought I'd give you a ring. (Jovially) Be seeing you at the hearings!"

THE CONVERSATION left the department head with two alternatives. Using economy reasons as an excuse, he could fire employee Blank (who obviously was not a Communist) and be assured of the congressman's support when the department's appropriation came up.

Or he could refuse to fire him and be assured of the congressman's eternal enmity, a lot of Communist-hint innuenda—and a sizeable cut in the department's budget which would throw hundreds of other much-

ENLISTEES MAY JOIN ARMY FOR FIVE YEARS NOW

Extension of the maximum enlistment period authorized for the regular Army from three to five years was announced Tuesday by Sgt. Alva E. Smith of the U. S. Army recruiting station, V. F. W. Club building, Circleville.

Sgt. Smith listed six important changes in regulations governing enlistment and reenlistment in the Regular Army effective July 1.

1. Original enlistments in the Regular Army (except Army Air Forces) are authorized for 2, 3, 4 and 5 years only. An original enlistment means the man has had no prior service in the Regular Army, although he may have served during the war in the Army of the United States.

2. Reenlistments in the Regular Army are authorized for 3, 4 and 5 years only. A reenlistment means that the enlistee has had prior service in the Regular Army. This service may have been recent or it may have been performed several years ago.

3. Extension of current enlistments to three years will be continued as currently authorized.

4. Grades, choice of assignment, enlistment allowance, enlistment travel allowance and reenlistment leave currently offered to three year enlistees will be extended to any man enlisting or reenlisting for 3, 4 or 5 years.

5. Enlistments in the Army Air Forces are limited to 3, 4, or 5 years.

6. Individuals enlisting or reenlisting on or after July 1, 1947 will not be eligible to receive mustering out pay at time of discharge.

ALL OF WHICH is by way of pointing out how a small, but extremely active, handful of congressmen are using the otherwise quite serious and sincere anti-Communist drive to settle their old personal and political scores and to persecute perfectly innocent federal workers.

It's an amazingly effective device—but also quite effective in sabotaging the honest campaign against the real Communists in government service.

It tarts so many people with the same brush that it becomes almost impossible to detect the real Communists. It causes the honest congressman or department head to wonder in each case whether the accused individual really is a red—or is just the ancient enemy of some politician. And, of course, it provides the real Communists with perfect cover and gives them a chance to ridicule the whole campaign against them.

Worst of all, among sometimes gullible Americans who traditionally detect any type of persecution, it produces a dangerous number of potential recruits for the Communist cause!

Esmeralda Scores Five Runs Without Hits; Produce Men Collect Six

Bill Hobbles pitched a no-hitter Monday night but Drake's Produce had to come from behind to win a Night Softball league game, 6-5, from Esmeralda.

Hobbles issued three walks and his mates made three errors. Drake's got eight hits off Charles Hill, including doubles by Bill Hobbles, Garner and Ebert.

Wolves Are Blamed For Change At Mansfield

COLUMBUS, O., July 8—Ohio State University and the Cleveland Indians apparently have no monopoly on grandstand "wolves" who figure a coach or manager should win all his games, "or else."

Football Coach Paul Snyder of Mansfield high school felt the bite of the wolf-pack last week when he stepped down, reportedly under pressure, to assistant coach while Augie Morningstar was brought in from Portsmouth to head the grid staff.

All Snyder's 1946 grid team did was to win seven while tying two and losing only one. The Tygers were ranked tenth in the state in the International News Service poll of sports editors.

The lone Mansfield loss was incurred at the hands of Toledo Waite, the recognized mythical state champion. One of the ties was with Massillon, also one of the state's "big ten" in the INS ratings.

To add a twist of irony to the situation, the Tygers defeated Morningstar's Portsmouth eleven, which incidentally failed to live up to expectations.

MANSFIELD News-Journal sports editor Fred Tharp blames the coaching change strictly on the "wolves," and recalls that Russ Murphy received a similar kiss of death 17 years ago. Murphy is now assistant coach at North Carolina University.

Morningstar is undoubtedly one of the state's finer young coaching prospects. At Massillon in 1945, he had an undefeated team although the Tygers tied five contests.

Another consideration in the Morningstar appointment at Mansfield undoubtedly lies in that city's intention to expand its football program.

MANSFIELD is dedicating a

BOBBY LOCKE HOLDS LEAD IN GOLF TOURNEY

CHICAGO, July 8—Bobby Locke, the dauntless, smooth-stroking South African, teed off today in the final 18 holes of the All-American pro golf tourney with a three-stroke advantage over Ed Oliver, Wilmington, Del.

Locke amassed his lead over the stoutly-built Oliver in the first round of the playoff with a card of 34-34-68, four under par, on the tricky Tam O'Shanter course in Chicago.

The invader is shooting for the $7,000 in first prize money. The purse for second place is $3,333.50.

Oliver produced a 71, one under par, yesterday, but was three strokes down to the canny South African as early as the first nine holes.

The South African earned his way into the playoff by erasing a three-stroke lead Oliver boasted Sunday at the start of the final 18 holes of the regulation 72-hole distance.

new stadium this Fall, although the plant is as yet incomplete.

It seems that Mansfield is bent on installing a "feeder" system such as Paul Brown inaugurated at Massillon years ago. The plan has been adopted elsewhere with considerable success, for instance at Middletown, which has won the state basketball crown three of the last four years.

When Morningstar was retained at Portsmouth, it was widely understood that part of his duties would involve establishing such a system extending from grade school to high school level. Now, his move to Mansfield seems to signify that the Tyger boosters are in the market for a similar system.

At any rate, Mansfield appears to mean business. They are authoritatively reported to have agreed to pay Morningstar $4,500, said to be well above the stipend received by any other Tyger coach.

10TH INVERNESS GOLF TOURNEY OPENS THURSDAY

TOLEDO, O., July 8—Sixteen top-ranking golf professionals, beginning Thursday, will compete for $10,500 in the 10th annual Inverness invitational golf tournament in Toledo.

Six of the 16 competitors this year will be making their initial appearance in the Inverness. They include Lew Worsham, the Pittsburgh star who won the U. S. open in St. Louis; Dr. Cary Middlecoff, Memphis, and George Schouh, hailed as a rising star.

MOORE WINS IN THIRD FLIGHT OF TOURNAMENT

John Moore is the winner of the third flight of the golf tournament at the Pickaway Country Club. He won the finals from Jack Stout, 3 and 2.

Art Marshall has reached the finals in the first flight. In the second flight Dr. Robert Hedges and Joe Brink will meet in the finals. Hedges defeated Carl Mason 4 and 2 and Brink downed Rod Heine 4 and 2.

JOE LOUIS MAY RETIRE FROM RING UNBEATEN

NEW YORK, July 8—The possibility loomed today that Joe Louis may retire from the ring undefeated next January without another defense of his heavyweight title.

Sol Strauss, acting promoter of the 20th Century Sporting club, rejected a September bout between Louis and Olle Tandberg, surprise winner over Joe Baksi, although the winner had been guaranteed a title shot.

Strauss will attempt to persuade Louis to meet the winner of the Elmer (Violent) Ray-Ezzard Charles July 25 fight. Failing in that, he will try to salvage a contender from some sort of an elimination tournament involving Ray, Charles, Tandberg and Baksi, but it would not be possible to pair the victor with Louis this year because there would not be enough time to ballyhoo a title bout.

ALL-STAR GAME IN CHICAGO FOR RETURN SHOWING

Blackwell and Chandler in Starting Roles For Big Event

CHICAGO, July 8—The major league all-star spectacle, by now a brash adolescent with a two-way persecution complex, returned to the city of its birth today with 44,000 keyed-up fans booked for the Wrigley field ringside.

It was 14 years ago, in cross-Chicago Comiskey park, that one George Ruth slugged the home run that led the American League to triumph over the Nationals in the first all-star engagement.

In the fulsome years that followed, the game hit every town in both leagues, with the pardonable exception of Brooklyn. But neither time nor travel seemed capable of altering the original pattern. The Americans won, and won some more. And today, victorious in nine of the 13 previous all-star contests they were 7-to-5 favorites to do it again.

To make good those odds in the big Wrigley park, home of the National League Chicago Cubs, the Americans must overcome a slight but noticeable on-paper hitting and pitching disadvantage.

What's more, they are dealing with a group of desperate men. National League President Ford Frick commanded N. L. Manager Eddie Dyer of the St. Louis Cardinals:

"Win, sir, or else!" Thus cajoled, the sparrow-faced Dyer over his admirable complement of pitching talent and picked no-hit Ewell Blackwell to start on the mound for the host N. L. force.

Swift counter-action was forthcoming from American League Manager Joe Cronin, who in real life pilots the league champion Boston Red Sox. Reflecting that what troubles him should also trouble others, the cag-jawed Cronin nominated an old Red Sox nemesis, New York Yankee Spurgeon Chandler, as starting moundman for the junior circuit.

Dyer's National League batting order presented two personnel changes from the cast hand-picked by two million voting fans. Eddie Miller, the Cincinnati shortstop, and Bob Elliott, the Boston third-basemen, begged off due to throwing arm discomfort, and their places were taken, respectively, by Marty Marion of St. Louis and Frank Gustine of Pittsburgh. Six of the National League starters showed batting marks over .300.

JONES DENIES EVERYTHING AT SENATE HEARING

Committee Ends Session With Testimony Of Nominee For FCC Post

WASHINGTON, July 8 — Rep. Robert F. Jones (R) Ohio, went before a senate committee and for a second time flatly denied that he ever was a member of the Black Legion at Lima, Ohio.

At a senate commerce committee hearing on his nomination for the federal communications commission, Jones flatly contradicted three admitted Black Legion members who testified they saw him inducted into the anti-Catholic, anti-Jewish, anti-Negro society. He said:

"I never took the preliminary oath of the Black Legion. I never was inducted. I never attended any meetings."

"I never made any speeches that I can recall in labor hall."

Jones' reference to labor hall speeches was in answer to an assertion by Joseph B. Emmons, CIO official, that the congressman went to labor hall and professed sympathy with labor, but in his first house vote was against labor.

The subcommittee wound up hearings yesterday with the testimony of Jones. Sen. Brewster (R) Me., chairman, said an executive meeting will be called to study the evidence.

FIRST UN MOVIE COMPLETED; TO BE SHOWN SOON

NEW YORK, July 8 — The United Nations has just completed its first movie—a two reeler running 20 minutes—which will be released world-wide in about three weeks.

The film, titled "The People's Charter" is the first of 14 that the UN's movie section plans to produce on a $400,000 budget allotted at the last general assembly.

The first film, a compilation of newsreel shots, tells how the UN came to be. It opens with the signing of the Atlantic Charter where, a voice in the background says, the idea for United Nations was born.

The story moves from there to the San Francisco conference where the idea was embodied in an actual organization and concludes with shots of the first UN assembly in London 18 months ago.

This and future UN films are not for commercial distribution but can be obtained by any theatre for the asking. The picture will go first to church, school and service organizations in the 55 United Nations.

VFW DUES UPPEDED; OFFICERS NAMED AT ENCAMPMENT

COLUMBUS, O., July 8—Dues in the Veterans of Foreign Wars are going up from 50 cents to $1.25 a year to finance an expansion program.

The action was voted at the final session of the 27th annual encampment of the VFW which saw John M. Emde, 55-year-old Akron school principal and World War I veteran, win the hotly-contested four-man election for the junior vice-commandership—the post eventually leading to the top office in the organization.

Advanced without opposition to the post of commander was Robert Howard, Willard, the senior vice-commander last year.

Thomas F. Gallagher, Lima, defeated Walter Kelley, Cincinnati, for the post of judge advocate in an election that was disputed on the first ballot and then re-voted by the delegates.

Others elected were George Kistner, Columbus, adjutant quartermaster; Dr. Louis H. Brooks, Cleveland, surgeon, and Nyle Borden, Gallipolis, chaplain.

District commanders installed include E. W. Funk, Columbus, district 11.

EXPORTS AND IMPORTS

THE MADE-IN-AMERICA slogan is being put on the shelf for the moment. Economists point out that because the United States is a creditor nation, imports should exceed exports. The reverse is the fact, since about 15 billion dollars' worth of goods is being exported, including large amounts of manufactured and farm products. Only about six billion dollars' worth of goods is coming in from foreign countries. The demand for American goods is high, destined to remain so for years. It looks like good business until it is realized that foreign countries are having credit troubles, are building up their debt to the United States at the rate of about nine billion dollars a year.

One remedy is additional dollar loans abroad—an undertaking that cannot be continued indefinitely. Even taking into account the huge reserves in the Export-Import Bank, the U. S. subscription in the World Bank and the unspent portion of the British loan, additional funds would have to be supplied by Congress if foreign buying of American products were to be increased. The other remedy is the obvious one of encouraging more purchase by this country of products made abroad.

The above is an oversimplification of a complicated problem, presented in round figures. Three groups have been appointed by President Truman to study the relation between domestic economy and American foreign policy whether that be in the field of trade, loans or outright rehabilitation aid. The work of these committees, whose personnel numbers 19 Americans, should go ahead promptly; the world waits upon their findings. These can be checked against the findings of the European nations now planning to study their own needs and powers and report on them under the Marshall plan in September.

DOGS IN HOT WEATHER

ONE OF the most lamentable cases among this year's dog population has been the clawing to death by a dog of an eleven-year-old boy in New York. Such cases are unusual, but there is always special danger at this time of year. It is wise to keep an eye on the dogs and shut them up in case of any abnormal behavior. By all means call a veterinary in case of doubt. Better be safe than be sorry.

"East is East and West is West" said Kipling; but that is changing now, as both groups meet half way around the world and discover the same kind of chewing gum.

'Round Canada - - - Hour by Hour

Pages From the Diary of An Antiquated Reporter:

Two days in camp, one blistering hot with the bottom dropping out of the barometer, the second blustery and almost cold. Out briefly in the heat, long enough for the women to land a wall-eye and three pike and then back to camp. Napped in the afternoon. Swapped tall tales with other fishermen, visited with the Greens and turned in at an early hour. Rain during the night and lulled to sleep by its patter on the roof.

Breakfasted on fruit juice, a pair of eggs, bacon, toast and coffee and felt like a king is supposed to feel. At home anything more than a cup of coffee murders me. Something in the pine-laden air that stirs appetite. Watched four boats take off for the fishing grounds, women in all of them. More and more women are taking to fishing. Finally landed and took off about 11. Ran ten miles, explored an island, landed for a shore dinner. Wind rising and when the boat headed for the weed beds the white caps were plentiful. Western sky looked threatening and after a pair of rounds that produced nothing did turn toward camp.

Other boats soon came in and it was an afternoon camp gathering until dinner of vegetable soup, roast chicken, mashed potatoes, boiled cabbage and an unusual dessert of bananas and rhubarb. Sounds goofy, but really good. Out then for a try for Old Stony, the big musky that lurks within a half mile of camp and who has defied capture for years. Has been hooked a score of times, but each time breaks tackle and escapes. Noted a peculiar sound in the motor and a loss of power, so headed back to camp. George found the trouble, a propeller housing that had gone bad and chewed up everything in its vicinity. Tomorrow George will go along to Sudbury in the hope of finding repair parts. Maybe, maybe not. If not then the fishing is ended, for I wouldn't row a boat ten miles to catch the brother of the whale that was Jonah's host.

Wind from the West, Southwest today and the water at this end of the lake dropped about a foot, piling up that high and more at North Bay about 50 miles to the East. Barometer still low, indicating more stormy weather tomorrow even though the sun went down red tonight. Clouds scudding across a great moon and in a pine nearby a whip-poor-will sending his call into the night. To another whip-poor-will it may be beautiful, but to me very monotonous. Prefer the call of a big frog nearby. His "song" somehow seems to mean something. What, I don't know, not being a frog.

On the porch a whining and scratching. One of George's dogs asking to be let in. Half hound and half cocker spaniel. A half dozen times a day the cocker starts in swimming, but when the water gets to the hound's belly that one decides he has had enough and comes in. Of course the spaniel has to come along. The hound wishes to chase deer and the cocker prefers the smaller animals. Unless one side wins pretty soon that dog is heading for a nervous breakdown.

Columbus party left today taking the limit of wall-eyes and a few big pike. A long, long way to pack fish. They expect to drive right through, some 780 miles. I'll leave the fish up here and take a little more time when I head south.

Nearby a second whip-poor-will has opened up and off in the distance a third one sings. Will be at it for at least another hour. At first they worry one, but later serve to lull one to sleep. Three of them may start their lullaby right now.

NEWS BEHIND THE NEWS

By PAUL MALLON

WASHINGTON, July 8—A new high in political intimidation was scored when an electrical union international field representative organized the picketing of the wedding of a young son of Senator Taft because of Taft's legislative views. This man who injected union politics into a family nuptial celebration proclaimed a right "to picket Senator Taft wherever we find him."

The right he is proclaiming, of course, is to intimidate not only a public legislator, but his family, thus to annoy and frighten any public man for having views contrary to a union's.

In somewhat similar but more legitimate circumstances, President Truman set a far different and thoroughly American example. When Henry Wallace went to Europe to speak against the American government foreign policy, Mr. Truman said let him talk, let him go as far as he wishes. His passport was not taken up. No impediment of the slightest intimidation was put in his path. Mr. Truman let Wallace have and express his opinion, even contrary to bi-partisan government foreign policy and even abroad against his own government.

The immediate significance of this picketing of Hymen involves the question how far the unions are going in opposition to a law enacted by more than two-thirds of congress. One small Ohio manufacturer, who has never had serious labor trouble (no strikes), says privately his men have turned against their leaders in the past week, are growing restless, and he fears the result. Indeed the trend has gone so far an AFL official issued public assurance against revolutionary activities such as a general strike. But private reports from certain eastern factories disclose the Communists have found meat to their liking in this situation and are going whole hog at it intending to goad the unions to the utmost. Furthermore, certain senators are saying that while the Commies may make extreme nuisances for the government, the really dangerous political movement within the unions will come from an American counterpart of the British Socialist Union leftists who want the union fight against the bill to lead America into a Socialist labor government like England's. This group is not organized in a party. It is not yet even clearly defined as a sect. But the picketing of the nuptials of a son of a senator for his legislative view represents extremist Socialist tactics of political intimidation, smearing of public names and roughshod riding of public opinion.

My own reports are meagre and largely personal, but do not beat out these fearful suspicions. Or rather, the most trustworthy objective reports, while inadequate, show none of these political disasters is actually possible.

This may go down in history as "Noah's Year," referred to by high-brows as the "Second Noachian Deluge". But where is the dove with the olive branch?

A lot of people, reading Henry Wallace's speeches, seem to be wondering what, if anything, it's all about.

We hear very little about the Germans lately; was ist los?

MUST UNBLOCK EARLY

UNBLOCKING of a suit, as the only means of making a contract, is a whole lot easier to understand late in the play than on the first trick or two. But by then it is likely to be too late. Some situations require foresight which only the extremely keen and forward looking declarer is able to apply. That is especially true if he is up against skillful defenders, who will not help him the slightest, but compel him to do all his own work.

Funny bidding, with a timid North, a venturesome East and an ambitious South. But it luckily landed South in a contract he had a chance to make. Though he had eight set-up tricks, game would have been impossible at No Trumps for either himself or his partner if each time West got the lead with a heart he returned a club.

After the 5-Diamonds West led his heart K and, on getting the 2, switched to the 6 of his partner's spades, which drew the 8, 9 and A. South drew three rounds of trumps, then led his heart Q. If West had taken this, South could have won any return, then could have used the heart J and 9 to discard his two losing black cards. But West played his 5 on the heart Q. That, as you will note, made it impossible for South to drive out the heart A and then use the dummy's hearts for discards, so that one trick each in hearts, spades and clubs beat the contract.

If South had been keener in his fourth lead, he would have seen the necessity of playing the heart Q on the opening K. Then, if West returned a spade, his contract would have been safe. Winning the spade in his own hand, he could have cleared trumps, then led the heart 7, unconcerned whether West covered with the A or not. If he played low, the J would win in the dummy and the 10 could be led for the spade discard on the trick West would take with the A. No matter what was returned, the spade K would be a dummy entry to use the heart 8 for a discard of the losing club.

Of course, a club lead to the second trick would scotch this plan, but West could hardly make that switch after East's spade bid.

DIET AND HEALTH

Child Who Dawdles at Meals

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

CHILDREN who dawdle and play over their meals and refuse to eat are a trial to their parents and a menace to themselves for, to be healthy, a child must eat the proper foods.

I would regret it, however, if this statement should cause any mother to become over-anxious about her child's eating habits because I am convinced that this very attitude on the part of mothers is an important cause for the great numbers of poor eaters we find among today's children.

Too Much Food

Of course, the main reason for the development of poor eating habits is too much food and foods of the wrong kind, sweets and other highly concentrated foods, such as pies and cookies, which dull appetite for the plain, wholesome milk and vegetables every child should have.

The best rule for mothers seeking to establish good eating habits in their children is "Take it easy." The whole business of eating should be treated in a casual way, and not too much importance given to eating, at least in so far as the mind of the child is concerned. For example, the mother who says, "Now, you are going to eat a great big dinner for Mother today, aren't you?" immediately is issuing a challenge to the child to resist eating.

Good Eating Habits

Children who have good eating habits are usually from homes where the meals are served without any nagging or fussing, and where the child learns to eat like the others.

The HOLLOW

By Agatha Christie

Copyright, 1946, by Agatha Christie. Distributed by King Features Syndicate.

SYNOPSIS

Among the week-end guests Lady Lucy Angkatell had invited to The Hollow were attractive Dr. John Christie and his dull, plain-looking wife, Gerda. The others, all members of the Angkatell clan, were: kindly Henrietta Savernake, successful sculptress; young Midge Hardcastle, who supported herself by working in one of London's swank dress shops; David Angkatell, university student, and quiet Edward Angkatell, whose unrequited love of Henrietta made him unaware that Midge had long adored him. Unknown to anyone, Henrietta and John Christie had fallen deeply in love. Prior to leaving for Lucy's, John sat in his Harley Street office trying to fathom the mood of discontent which engulfed him, while upstairs, Gerda and the children patiently awaited his appearance for lunch. His thoughts went back to an earlier chapter in his life, when he had been madly in love with glamorous Veronica Gray, motion picture actress. He had broken their engagement when she refused to give up her career, and later had married Gerda, whose slavish devotion had left him free to pursue his beloved profession. In Henrietta he had found the intelligent understanding which Gerda lacked. Recently, while exhausted after a difficult session with old Mrs. Crabtree, his favorite clinic patient, he had stopped off at her studio. He was annoyed, however, when he recognized Gerda as the model used for Henrietta's latest masterpiece, "The Worshipper." Meanwhile, in the dining room, Gerda contemplated the cooling roast, and the coming week-end, with equal despair. She did not like the Angkatells and felt awkward and uncomfortable in their company. John's arrival banished her unhappy thoughts. While Gerda packed, their small daughter, Zena, insisted on telling John's fortune with cards. When she solemnly announced the queen of hearts still held power over him, he immediately thought of Veronica, whom he had not seen for fifteen years.

CHAPTER TEN

MIDGE HARDCASTLE came downstairs about eleven on Saturday morning. She had had breakfast in bed and had read a book and dozed a little and then got up. It was nice lazing this way. About time she had a holiday! No doubt about it, Madame Allfrege's got on your nerves.

She came out of the front door into the pleasant August sunshine. Sir Henry Angkatell was sitting on a rustic seat reading The Times. He looked up and smiled. He was fond of Midge.

"Hullo, my dear."

"Am I very late?"

"You haven't missed lunch," said Sir Henry, smiling.

Midge sat down beside him and said with a sigh:

"It's nice being here."

"You're looking rather peaked."

"Oh, I'm all right. How delightful to be somewhere where no fat women are trying to get into clothes several sizes too small for them!"

"Must be dreadful!" Sir Henry paused and then said, glancing down at his wrist-watch, "Edward's arriving by the 12:15."

"Is he?" Midge paused, then said, "I haven't seen Edward for a long time..."

"He's just the same," said Henry. "Hardly ever comes up from Ainswick."

Ainswick, thought Midge. Ainswick! Her heart gave a sick pang. Those lovely days at Ainswick. Visits looked forward to for months! I'm going to Ainswick...

Lying awake for nights beforehand thinking about it... And at last—the day! The little country station at which the train—the big London express—had to stop if you gave notice to the guard! The Daimler waiting outside. The drive—the final turn in through the gate and up through the woods till you came out into the open and there the house was—big and white and welcoming. Old Uncle Geoffrey in his patchwork tweed coat.

"Now then, youngsters—enjoy yourselves." And how they had enjoyed themselves. Henrietta, over from Ireland. Edward home from Eton. She herself, from the North country grinnings of a manufacturing town. How like heaven it had been.

But always centering about Edward, tall and gentle and diffident and always kind. But never, of course, noticing her very much because Henrietta was there.

Edward, always so retiring, so very much of a visitor that she had been startled one day when Tremlet, the head gardener, had said:

"The place will be Mr. Edward's some day."

"But why, Tremlet? He's not Uncle Geoffrey's son?"

"He's the heir, Miss Midge. Entailed, that's what they call it. Miss Lucy, she's Mr. Geoffrey's only child, but she can't inherit because she's a female and Mr. Edward, her husband, he's only a second cousin. Not so near as Mr. Edward."

And now Edward lived at Ainswick. Lived there alone and very seldom came away. Midge wondered, sometimes, if Lucy minded. Lucy always looked as though she never minded about anything.

Yet Ainswick had been her home, and Edward was only her first cousin once removed and over twenty years younger than she was. Her father, old Geoffrey Angkatell, had been a great "character" in the country. He had had considerable wealth as well, most of which had come to Lucy, so that Edward was a comparatively poor man, with enough to keep the place up, but not much over when that was done.

Not that Edward had expensive tastes. He had been in the diplomatic service for a time, but when he inherited Ainswick he had resigned and come to live on his property. He was of a bookish turn of mind, collected first editions, and occasionally wrote rather interesting, if not brilliant, articles for obscure reviews. He had asked his second cousin, Henrietta Savernake, three times to marry him.

Midge sat in the autumn sunshine, thinking of these things. She could not make up her mind whether she was glad she was going to see Edward or not. It was not as though she were what was called "getting over it." One simply did not get over anyone like Edward. Edward at Ainswick was just as real to her as Edward rising to greet her from a restaurant table in London. She had loved Edward ever since she could remember.

Sir Henry's voice recalled her: "How do you think Lucy is looking?"

"Very well. She's just the same as ever," Midge smiled a little. "More so."

"Ye-es," Sir Henry drew on his pipe. He said unexpectedly: "Sometimes, you know, Midge, I get worried about Lucy."

"Worried?" Midge looked at him in surprise. "Why?"

Sir Henry shook his head. "Lucy," he said, "doesn't realize

that there are things that she can't do."

Midge stared. He went on: "She gets away with things. She always has." He smiled. "She's flouted the traditions of Government House—she's played merry heck with precedence at dinner parties (and that, Midge, is a black crime). She's put deadly enemies next to each other at the dinner table, and run riot over the color question! And instead of raising one big almighty row and setting everyone at loggerheads and bringing disgrace on the British Raj—I'm darned if she hasn't got away with it! That trick of hers—smiling at people and looking as though she couldn't help it! Servants are the same—she gives them any amount of trouble and they adore her."

"I know what you mean," said Midge thoughtfully. "Things that you wouldn't stand for anyone else, you feel are all right if Lucy does them. What is it, I wonder? Charm? Magnetism?"

Sir Henry shrugged his shoulders. "She's always been the same from a girl—only sometimes I feel it's growing on her... I mean that she doesn't realize that there are limits. Why, I really believe, Midge," he said amused, "that Lucy would feel she could get away with murder!"

Henrietta got the Delage out from the garage in the Mews, and after a wholly technical conversation with her friend Albert, who looked after the Delage's health, she started off.

"Running a treat, Miss," said Albert.

Henrietta smiled. She shot away down the Mews, savoring the un-failing pleasure she always felt when setting off in the car alone. She much preferred to be alone when driving. In that way she could realize to the full the intimate personal enjoyment that driving a car brought to her.

She enjoyed her own skill in traffic, she enjoyed nosing out new short cuts out of London. She had routes of her own and when driving in London, herself had as much made a knowledge of its streets as any taxi driver.

She now took her own newly discovered way southwest, turning and twisting through intricate mazes of suburban streets.

When she finally came to the long ride of Shovel Down it was half past twelve. Henrietta had always loved the view from that particular place. She paused now just at the point where the road began to descend. All around and below her were trees, trees whose leaves were turning from gold to brown. It was a world incredibly golden and splendid in the strong autumn sunlight.

Henrietta thought, I love autumn. It's so much richer than spring.

And suddenly one of those moments of intense happiness came to her—a sense of the loveliness of the world—of her own intense enjoyment of that world.

She thought, I shall never be as happy again as I am now... never.

She stayed there a minute, gazing out over that golden world that seemed to swim and dissolve into itself, hazy and blurred with its own beauty.

Then she came down over the crest of the hill, down through the woods, down the long steep road to The Hollow.

Evelyn Knight, "The Lass With the Delicate Air," featured on "New Tony Martin Show" Sundays, has noted a sharp increase in fan letters since a national picture magazine featured her in a photographic layout. Most of the letters were to the effect that Miss Knight's looks are strikingly on a par with her singing—and that's very good, indeed.

Gerald Mohr, the screen's "Lone Wolf," is also a frequent performer on the Wednesday night thriller series, "The Whistler."

CONSUMERS WILL PAY FOR PEACE IN COAL MINES

PITTSBURGH, July 8—Peace in the nation's coal mining industry will cost home owners and industries money.

Experts today forecast a price increase of between 65 and 70 cents a ton at retail outlets to offset concessions granted northern members of the United Mine Workers union.

Industrialists said an increase in coal prices will mean a boost in electric power prices, which in turn means a boost in steel products, automobiles, household appliances and construction materials.

While a coal price increase loomed as inevitable, business men sought the answer to two all important questions:

Will the UMW new contract start another round of higher prices?

Will other labor unions attempt to equal the 45-cent an hour wage increase won by John L. Lewis?

Northern mine operators said the new wage pact will increase their costs more than $6,500,000 a week. Based on an estimated 9,000,000 tons of coal dug weekly by these companies it would equal a little over a 70 cents a ton price boost.

LUCKY STRIKE presents THE MAN WHO KNOWS—

THE TOBACCO AUCTIONEER!

"I'M A TOBACCO MAN... born and raised in the tobacco business, and season after season, I've seen the makers of Lucky Strike buy tobacco that's mild, ripe and mellow... fine tobacco that tastes good and smokes good."

D. H. HUFFINES, INDEPENDENT TOBACCO AUCTIONEER of Reidsville, North Carolina (29 YEARS A LUCKY STRIKE SMOKER)

FINE TOBACCO is what counts in a cigarette

DEWEY HUFFINES IS RIGHT!... And like him, scores of other experts... who really know tobacco... have seen the makers of Lucky Strike buy tobacco that's "mild, ripe and mellow." After all, that's what you want in a cigarette... the honest, deep-down enjoyment of fine tobacco.

So remember...
